DEATH TOLL RISES AS REVOLT FLARES ANEW IN SPAIN

Northwestern Area Again Is Scene of Sporadic Violence as Anarchists Continue Effort To Overthrow Government.

TROUBLE CONFINED TO 12 OF 50 STATES

Eight Persons Are Killed as Three Trains Are Wrecked During Brief Reign of Terror.

MADRID, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A revolutionary outbreak in northeastern Spain flared anew today, adding five deaths to the toll of the anarchist insurrection, which now stands at 54. A sergeant and a corporal of loyal troops were killed by revolutionaries who had taken refuge in a recruit barracks at Villanueva Lacerana. Several others were killed by the machine gun fire.

Reinforcements were expected momentarily with cannon and the government ordered the rebels to surrender within six hours or a bombardment to begin.

Disorders in Badajoz, Peral and Zaragoza provinces marked an otherwise comparatively tranquil day.

Government spokesmen expressed confidence Sunday would mark an end of the reign of anarchist revolt which included bombings, shooting, wrecking of trains, burning of churches and schools, cutting of communications lines and other acts of sabotage.

Taking No Chances.

However, the government was taking no chances and planned a strict application of the "state of alarm," declared throughout the country yesterday, should bring a repetition of the outrages committed within the last 24 hours.

The threat of a general strike still hung over the country, with some effect in several cities and towns.

All labor meetings were temporarily prohibited throughout Spain and

Youth, 18, Loses Life In Auto Crash Here

Injured in an automobile accident at Spring and Tenth streets, Fred Herring, 18, of 382 North Avenue, N. E., died at 4 o'clock Sunday morning at Grady hospital.

The youth was fatally hurt at about 8 o'clock when the car in which he was riding with K. M. Searle, thought to live in Buckhead, collided with the machine of G. E. MacClair, of 14 Seventeenth street, E. W.

Police said MacClair, riding alone, was proceeding down Tenth street and that he met Searle's machine at the intersection at Spring. The cars collided head-on, and MacClair and Searle received slight injuries. Searle is in the Crawford W. Long hospital and MacClair was treated at Grady hospital for a fracture of the right arm.

Funeral services for Herring will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of A. J. Herring & Sons, 1000 Peachtree street, N. E. The casket will be in the care of the firm.

Parade and Other Big Events Mark Christmas Celebration

Real Live Alaskan Reindeer, Eskimo Dogs and Eskimo Helpers Will Be Brought to Atlanta by Santa Claus.

By JOE ROSENFIELD JR.

Not just one event, not two events, but three colossal happenings are the order of the day on The Constitution's Christmas celebration program. First comes the big Santa Claus parade, which will move promptly as scheduled, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, December 15. In this parade Santa will bring to Atlanta his real live Alaskan reindeer, his Eskimo dogs and Eskimo helpers from the north pole. He will bring 15 or more beautifully decorated floats, clowns from the north pole workshop, grotesque figures, beautiful costumes, which will be worn by Atlanta girls.

In addition to Santa in person, local organizations will join in the festive celebration being planned and Atlanta is promised one of the most glorious occasions ever.

Following the big parade all Atlanta will join in the first annual city-wide charity ball to be held at the Shrine mosque, Franklin Roosevelt, president of the United States, has wired his sanction, and urges all to join in making a record-breaking ticket sale.

Santa Claus will lead the big parade, Fox Movietone News will film the parade and ball, and WGST will broadcast it to the world. Admission to the ball will be 50 cents for men, and a gift, a garment, a toy or a ticket for women. Every cent of money derived from the charity ball will be devoted to charity.

Then on Sunday morning The Constitution will print its Big Brother

ESCAPED CONVICT RECAPTURED HERE OF HEART ATTACK

Durant Shadix Caught and Car Used in State Farm Break Recovered.

Belief that eight of the ten prisoners who escaped Saturday night from the state prison at Milledgeville are in Atlanta was given credence Sunday when Atlanta detectives captured Durant Shadix, one of the convicts, and recovered the stolen sedan in which they fled from Milledgeville.

Shadix was arrested at his mother's home at 154 Alexander street at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a few hours after police had found the abandoned car on Harris street, several blocks from the scene of the arrest.

The trail which led to the arrest of Shadix started at 1 o'clock when a woman who resides on Harris street saw several men tinkering with the license tags of a Dodge sedan near her home. She thought the men were stealing the tags and went out to warn them to leave the car alone.

She then called the police, but when officers arrived the men had gone. McCullough Believed Seen.

Descriptions of two of the men tallied exactly with those of Shadix and Alvin McCullough, who was serving a life term for the murder of W. B. Baker, former president of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company, for which McCullough's father was electrocuted.

Officers checked the tags and motor number with the state capital and found the automobile, a Dodge sedan, was the property of Dr. O. C. Woods, of Milledgeville.

Knowing that Shadix's mother resided in the neighborhood, Detectives J. A. Allen and J. A. Hamilton went to the residence at once. They found the door locked, but Mrs. Shadix opened it at their knock. They discovered Shadix seated on a bed and

LINDBERGH FLY ACROSS JUNGLES IN POURING RAIN

392-Mile Flight Places Couple in Upper Amazon Territory But Nearer Home and Family.

By W. F. CALDWELL.

MANAOS, Brazil, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Completing a 392-mile hop from Para, part of it in a tropical rain, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 2:32 p. m., eastern standard time, today.

They left Para, coastal city at the mouth of the Amazon, at 6:55 a. m., completing the flight, another link in their great circle of the Atlantic, in 7 hours, 37 minutes.

According to plans announced yesterday the flying couple will leave Manaus tomorrow by way of Trinidad and Puerto Rico, arriving home before Christmas.

Their arrival in this river port in the heart of Brazil's vast expanse of equatorial jungle was the signal for a demonstration from an enthusiastic populace which crowded to the dock to watch them swoop from the sky.

Bullets in the newspaper Journal announced their approach and as they came into view sirens from river steamers screeched a welcome. They made a perfect landing in the broad harbor and quays immediately surrounded the plane.

Lindbergh assisted in tying the plane to a floating buoy maintained by the Pan-American Airways here, for which as technical adviser he is conducting his long aerial survey tour.

The route from Para to Manaus carried the Lindberghs over the majestic Amazon with its hundreds of tributaries and small islands, thick with virgin forests, the most beautiful tropical scenery in Brazil and perhaps in the world.

With Anne at the wireless the plane was in constant touch with stations on route. Her signals were in with clarity and regularly.

The couple arrived early at the harbor in Para and after expressing thanks to American Consul George E. Seltzer and other Ameri-

City's "Forgotten" Families, Ill, Dispirited, Need Your Aid

Relief Plans Not Designed To Help These Ten Opportunities, Unable To Work and Deserving of All Possible Assistance.

By ROY ROBERT.

One year ago the "forgotten man" was the subject most discussed in America, but of late the steady roar of returning prosperity has drowned out the wail of the real forgotten men and women—those suffering human beings who can never hope to profit through made work plans and other remedies of the administration.

For they are the people, these thousands and millions, who could not work if they were offered the best of jobs. In Atlanta there are many of these helpless folk who once held a secure place in society, who aided others and whose hearts warmed with compassion at the sight of needy humanity.

Among these needy people, stricken and almost hopeless, are many who once contributed to Ten Opportunities, shared the joys of the Ten Opportunities fund, at least one man, known to the writer, will recall how he gave substantial sum only four years ago to the fund—and he will wonder anew how conditions can so change from those bright days when he could earn a comfortable living for his family to the present when he is broken in health and spirit.

Reaches the Most Deserving. Ten Opportunities, more than any other gesture of mercy, reaches the most deserving of the needy. In many streets in Atlanta there are destitute families which will not seek aid, remembering the days when they were economically independent. That strange human pride that dwells in the hearts of the best people will not permit them to ask "charity."

Every dollar subscribed will go to those in need, for not one penny is expended in administering the relief, which is done by trained workers in the Family Welfare Society.

During the last several weeks The Constitution and the Family Welfare Society have investigated and sought and found the ten most deserving families in the city. They are the Ten Opportunities.

These families are beyond the reach of remedies adopted by the government. They are unable to even seek work and their future is black unless more fortunate people aid them.

True enough, food and presents on Christmas Day would cheer them—but they need a "year-round Christmas" of shelter, food and fuel. With such provision they would be able to pick up the threads of shattered lives and once again find a substantial place in society.

Successful for 14 Years. Over a period of 14 years The Constitution has sponsored this annual movement to offer the public Ten Opportunities to administer to these most pitiful of humanity. Each year

LYNCHING THREATS FOLLOW DISCOVERY OF WOMAN'S BODY

Farmer's Wife, Dead 3 Weeks, Found Under Culvert; Suspect Leads Posses in Unsuccessful Hunt for Husband's Body

By W. F. CALDWELL.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 10.—(UP)—A Kansas lynch mob raged into Oklahoma tonight determined to wrest Jack Wisdom, a farm hand, from the hands of officers who had directed in a search for the body of one of three persons whom he was suspected of slaying.

The threat of mob violence, manifesting itself for the sixth time in the nation within a month, was inspired by a series of crimes in which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pritchard, Wichita couple, and Emmory Lacey, a farm hand, were the latest victims.

Wisdom led a posse to a place near Kingfisher, Okla., where he confessed, officers said, to hiding Pritchard's body, but it was not found. Earlier in the day, a hunter found Mrs. Pritchard's body under a culvert north of Kingfisher, while detectives with the suspect in their custody sped to the gruesome cache.

Governor William H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murray ordered two companies of the Oklahoma National Guard to protect the police and their prisoner from angry Kansans reported speeding to seize and hang Wisdom.

Open Lynching Threats Made. Over threats of a lynching were made by Wichitans after suspicion fastened upon Wisdom. The couple had been missing three weeks.

Early today, when Wisdom was arrested at the remote farm home of his brother-in-law near Leach, Okla., the mob began forming.

By mid-afternoon 500 automobiles bearing potential lynchers had assembled. Leaders had procured a long rope. The mob formed the automobile procession in the stockyards district of Wichita, where Pritchard, a clothing merchant, was well known and popular.

Word came that Mrs. Pritchard's body had been found and that Wisdom himself was with a posse searching for the merchant's wife.

Murders of "let's go and get him" were heard. At nightfall the motorcade departed.

Meantime, Wisdom returned with Captain W. O. Lyle of the Wichita detective bureau, to Kingfisher, Okla., approximately 120 miles south of Wichita.

Officers refused to disclose their plans for holding Wisdom in view of the mob threats. Earlier they had planned to remove him to Kansas penitentiary for safe-keeping.

Governor William Murray, of Oklahoma, ordered troops to protect the prisoner.

Hunters by a posse of more than 20,000 Kansans and Oklahomans during a three weeks' period, Wisdom surrendered without resistance when

Bank Code Lauded By Ronald Ransom

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Ronald Ransom, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the banking code committee, said today that there has been set up under the bankers code "the machinery to bring about the desired condition of co-operative sound banking on a nationwide scale."

"I do not believe that any more effective measure for banking improvement could be devised than this one we now have through the medium of a code," he said.

Ransom said that with 322 bankers' groups completing drafts of fair trade practices for their localities, and more than 600 clearing houses and other bankers' organizations co-operating along sound lines made possible by the code "a new element of structural strength is being rapidly built into the banking situation."

He announced that President Roosevelt had appointed A. D. Whiteside, division administrator of the NRA, to the banking code committee, which represents the American Bankers' Association.

COLD WAVE TAKES LIVES OF SIXTEEN

Snow, Floods and Dropping Temperatures Dapple Weather Map.

By The Associated Press.

Snow, floods, and dropping temperatures dappled the weather map yesterday and cost at least five lives. Lowlands in the state of Washington were flooded by overflows from streams after heavy rains. Several families fled their homes. Highways and bridges were damaged and transportation was stopped in some sections.

The floods were believed responsible for at least 11 deaths in the past two days. Traffic accidents, lumber camp accidents, and drownings, directly or indirectly blamed on the high waters, caused the deaths.

Volunteer workers used skiffs to rescue marooned persons from house-tops and isolated places. They said they feared that receding waters might reveal other deaths.

Sub-freezing temperatures in Pennsylvania resulted in three deaths, two in Philadelphia and one at Chester. Temperatures fell after a brief snowstorm.

A cold snap in New York brought death to a man. A brisk wind intensified the chill which bore a memento for the season at 12. It was 4 above at Albany.

Coldest weather was reported in Vermont where 10 degrees below was recorded at Island Pond and Montpelier. Two firemen were overcome by smoke as they fought a blaze in the zero weather at Island Pond. It was generally blustery in New England and a storm warning was issued from Washington that winds of gale intensity were moving on the northeast coast.

A snowfall caused postponement of a professional football game at Columbus, Ohio, and Cleveland had a temperature of 28 degrees.

The midwest downed overcasts to combat biting winds that forced the thermometer below the comfort zone. Chicago, Omaha, St. Paul, Milwaukee and Minneapolis had temperatures between 20 and 30 readings reported on the way and snow flurries in sections. A heavy snowfall hit Wisconsin, Wis., and snow fell also near Detroit.

Rising temperatures, however, melted an Indiana snow of the day before and Louisville, Ky., had normal weather with warmer forecast. Baltimore had a low of 20.

Pries and Graham were captured within a short time after the break on the Macon highway. Officers in Milledgeville said they believed that the prisoners had broken up in groups and dogs were being used to trace them.

Why guard against this and neglect your own physical condition?

You may be extremely cautious about going out in bad weather. Your experience during past winters may have taught you that you're much more susceptible to illness after exposure.

But what inner defense can you offer against the ills that prevail at this time of year? This is what many people are asking. They have an entirely new conception about winter ills. It's as important to build up resistance, they've found, as it is to guard against exposure.

A fine physical condition—good resistance—physicians say, is the first defense people can offer against illness.

How important to get the factors which increase resistance!

Two, in particular, are helpful—Vitamin A and D. They may be obtained from halibut and cod-liver oils. Vitamin D is also available in Viosterol.

Now, however, a vitamin concentrate made from all the best sources is available to people with an abundance of these valuable resistance-builders. Squibb Adex Tablets—10 D.

Each Adex tablet contains 1000 units of Vitamin A and 2450 units of Vitamin D.

Taken every day Adex tablets help increase inner resistance against winter ills. They help you meet the extra tax of exposure and indoor living. Available at any reliable drug store.

Interne's 'Truth Powder' Treatment Cures Girl Victim of Amnesia

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10.—(P)—An interne's experiment with the subliminal mind of a young woman amnesia victim was credited by physicians at a hospital here today with restoring her memory after a lapse of two months.

The experiment, disclosed Saturday, was suggested to the interne, Dr. Ernest W. Lander, by his reading of medical literature describing the use of "truth powders" in obtaining confessions from criminals.

He decided to bring her subconscious mind to the surface, strive to keep her awake and question her. Large quantities of a sedative were given the attractive brunette to relax her nerves. Just as she showed signs of reacting to the quieting effects, Dr. Lander began asking her to speak had come to Atlanta in the stolen car.

The sedan had evidently been wrecked and had been driven hard, officers said. The right side was scratched and bent, as though the car had side-swiped something. The starter was broken and there was practically no gasoline left in the tank.

Milledgeville officers were notified of the capture by detectives. Shadix told officers he came to Atlanta alone and had not seen any of the others since the escape, but the police expressed the opinion that the prisoners were in the city. The convict had been drinking when arrested, it was said.

awakened by posmen at his brother-in-law's home.

Pritchard had filed a charge accusing Wisdom of passing a $21 worthless check. That, according to officers, was the last thing the only couple, the Pritchards, were last seen alive on the Wichita-Wellington highway accompanied by Wisdom, November 23.

Blood-Stayed Car Found.

The couple's blood-stained car was found eight days later near Bristol, Okla., 120 miles south of Wellington.

The body of Large, a co-worker with Wisdom on the L. W. Johnson ranch near Meade, Kan., was found in a dry well on the ranch November 23. Eleven head of Johnson's cattle had disappeared. Police suspected Wisdom of cattle rustling and killing Large to prevent him from talking.

When taken to Jay, Okla., from Leach, Wisdom admitted being with the Pritchards the night they disappeared. It was not until after hours of questioning that he blurted out to Captain Lyle:

"Take me to Kingfisher and I may be able to find their bodies."

The 50-mile dash across the state with the prisoner started at Kingfisher, Okla. Captain Lyle telephoned from Claremore to headquarters here that he was en route to Kingfisher.

The mob, which had been in the area developed. C. C. Cooksey, highway department employee, his wife and son, were taken to a house near Bison, 16 miles southwest of Kingfisher. Pursuing a rabbit into a culvert on a gravel county road, Cooksey stepped back and saw a man saw a decomposed body under the culvert.

He called Sheriff Joe Carvins at Bison, who in turn telephoned to Lemar and Denver.

Agent C. C. Suran left for Enid.

Body Identified.

The body was taken to the Brown building for the state's coroner, where officers identified it as that of Mrs. Pritchard. They said she had been shot through the right side and the Garfield county physician estimated the body had been under the culvert two weeks.

Wisdom, meantime, accompanied by officers, reached Kingfisher shortly before 6 p. m. He led the posse to a point 16 miles south of Kingfisher, where he believed, Captain Lyle said, he had hidden the merchant's body. For two hours the posse, equipped with searchlights, hunted over the area, but was unsuccessful.

Within a half hour after he had received a report of the mob, the governor had thrown the state's militia into motion to make good his recent assertions that never while he was governor would such mobs occur as recently lynched prisoners at San Jose, Cal., and St. Joseph, Mo.

When the San Jose lynching took place, Murray severely criticized California authorities, declaring that officials themselves were often responsible for mob action.

Tonight's mobilization was the 20th time the fiery "Alfalfa Bill" had resorted to military action to enforce state law.

Only 10 days ago he called out the state troops to seize tickets for the University of Oklahoma-Oklahoma A. & M. football game, to investigate alleged fraud in ticket sales.

GOLD PRICE LEAK BELIEVED PLUGGED

certain sections of the population, notably in the agricultural area, may temporarily react from a process of inflation, the sentiment expressed was that any good that would come of it would be more than offset by the disastrous consequences to the laboring groups of the population: The civil service and wage and salary workers, whose incomes are fixed, the workers whose wages have been fixed by codes or collective agreements, and for whom readjustment would be delayed while the cost of living would leap, and to those having savings accounts and insurance policies, most of whom are not wealthy and many of whom have no other means of existence during old age and disability.

Herbert Gaston, assistant to Acting Secretary Morgenthau, said that following the change made in method of fixing and making public the price of gold, there were no more complaints that information was seeping out until yesterday, when a press service reported that on Friday the price was known in London nine minutes before it was made public to newspapers at the treasury.

Not Convincing.

"In view of the fact that there was no change in the price that day," said Gaston, "the report is not very convincing. We are fully satisfied that nothing has occurred in the treasury and we are not convinced that a leak has occurred in the last ten days."

Nevertheless, lest the gold price or other treasury information get to the public prematurely in the future, officials are instituting safeguards, the nature of which they would not reveal. They will be put into effect at once.

Thomas's statement followed one by the United States Chamber of Commerce saying that improving business conditions had greatly diminished the probability of legislation requiring the president to institute a direct inflation of the currency. Several returning members of congress, notably Speaker Rainey, brought the same word from their home districts.

An anti-trust bill, introduced by Senator McNamara, will be introduced in the house, the report is not very convincing. We are fully satisfied that nothing has occurred in the treasury and we are not convinced that a leak has occurred in the last ten days."

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE THREE LITTLE PIGS?

Traffic jams, no-parking areas and jangled nerves—to mention just a trio of gluttons that gobble up holiday joy when you shop by automobile—are cast into outer darkness when you do your Santa-Claus-buying the pleasant street car way. It's wisest to avoid the morning and evening rush hours—but anyway, you get quickly to town and quickly back, relaxed and comfortable; the operator does the driving, while you plan your bargain list on the way down and chuckle over your wisdom while returning. We mustn't forget to remind you that it's much, much cheaper, too.

Captive Nazi Prince and Princess Flee From Austrian Castle to Italy

KLAGENFURT, Austria, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' captive Nazi princess is no longer a captive. Her escape to Italy was officially confirmed today.

Her husband, Prince Bernhard von Sachsen-Meiningen, also has disappeared from his romantic castle Eltzstaetten, near here, and was smuggled across the border by friends.

It was reported that even the five dogs which made life miserable for detectives assigned to guard the castle had escaped to Italy along with their master and mistress.

The prince was recently ordered transferred from the Klagenfurt jail—where he was incarcerated for a Nazi conspiracy—to a concentration camp near Vienna.

Through the intervention of the German legation at Vienna he was granted permission to wind up his personal affairs at the castle, where the Princess Margot was already cooped up for an indefinite term under the guard of six detectives.

Cooping up the princess in the same castle with a pretty 21-year-old princess, however, proved a tactical error. By the time the prince arrived in the castle en route from the concentration camp the detectives were tamed and the rest was easy.

The police official responsible for the castle guard was immediately discharged on orders from Vienna, and Chancellor Dollfuss dispatched a special representative to Klagenfurt.

While incarcerated in her own castle, Princess Margot, a tall, slender brunette, spent most of her time in a tower room soothing her nerves with needlework.

The five dogs complicated the task of detectives assigned to keep watch. They ran wildly about the premises, howling, barking, upsetting suits of armor and generally making life unpleasant for the castle guards.

The prince, in his Klagenfurt jail cell, finally called for his dogs, demanding that all five be allowed to visit him in prison. This was refused. Not even one small dog could enter the jail, said the keeper.

Then Prince Bernhard called for his fiddle. This also was refused, and made the prince infuriatedly why he was in the castle for not preventing the escape, minor officialdom in this locality imaginably heaved a sigh at being rid of their royal responsibilities.

They embrace economies of about $400,000. The new tax bills are intended with those voted earlier in the year to wipe out 6,000,000,000 francs (about $367,800,000) of the estimated deficit.

Reduction of the salaries of government employees, lotteries and a drive against tax-dodging are the major sources of economy and prospective increased revenue.

Premier Chautemps sought to smooth the way of his measures through the chamber by shifting the new tax burden to gasoline and employers of foreign labor. The chamber approved his proposal to triple the gasoline tax, substituting the increase for the existing drivers' tax, in an effort to make it acceptable. The gasoline tax would be increased from 20 centimes a liter to 60 centimes (approximately 31 1/2 cents a gallon at current exchange rates).

The new gasoline tax is expected to bring in 400,000,000 francs (currently about $235,000,000) with an additional 10 centimes per liter (2 1/2 cents per gallon) authorized if needed. Employers of foreign labor would be taxed 5 to 10 per cent of their workers' salaries.

CHAUTEAUPS WINS TESTS ON BUDGET

Tax Phase of Vital Finance Bill Is Approved
By Vote of 292 to 224.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The budget-balancing bill of Premier Camille Chautemps, which had threatened his overthrow, was maneuvered over its last big obstacle in the chamber of deputies today when a billion franc increase in taxation (currently about $613,000,000) was approved.

A vote of confidence was given the premier, 292 against 224, and his supporters hailed it as a far-reaching victory.

Earlier today the cabinet won a victory when the chamber, by a vote of 282 to 191, refused to eliminate the tax increases, one of which is on employers of foreign labor.

The measures embodying the Chautemps program for balancing the budget and placing the franc on a sound basis have been maneuvered past obstacles which were fatal to three preceding cabinets.

They embrace economies of about $400,000,000 francs (currently about $245,200,000). New taxation bills are intended with those voted earlier in the year to wipe out 6,000,000,000 francs (about $367,800,000) of the estimated deficit.

STATE LEGION MEET RAPS GEORGIA CWA

Macon Conference Names
Body To Probe 'Vet
Discrimination.'

MACON, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Attacks on the Georgia CWA setup which charge with discrimination against ex-service unemployed veterans, drew the major attention of 600 American Legion officials at a state conference here today from 1934 or organization plans as outlined by two national officials.

Slaney Camp, of Newnan, commander will appoint a special state re-employment committee "to investigate and co-operate with the state CWA." Captain A. L. Hanson, of Atlanta, veterans service office director and Commander Camp criticized the CWA administration and urged the attention of all posts.

A resolution creating the committee was passed with shouts of approval when W. A. Sirmen, of Atlanta, state adjutant, introduced it. Lincoln McCoskey, of Macon, state director of re-employment, explained work of his office and said "there will be jobs for no one in Georgia until the national administration has increased the state's quota of projects."

John Thomas Taylor, of Washington, D. C., Legion legislative committee, outlined the "four-point legislation" the organization service office director to congress and urged unified support.

Frank E. Samuel, of Indianapolis, Ind., national adjutant, said "The Legion must stay in the good graces of the public by seeing to it that we do not selfishly demand more than the government can sustain."

Numerous problems and plans of the national organization were outlined by Samuel, including the attitude the Legion would take to the recognition of Russia by the federal government.

"We are good soldiers," he said, and will not criticize nor hinder any government agency. Recognition is virtually a closed book, but our national convention gave us certain orders, and no one can accuse us of policies if we state our principles in plain language.

"The American Legion will never condone nor permit propaganda that seeks to tear down our government without a fight. We are going to ask congress for an appropriation for the department of justice to suppress that sort of thing which we believe will continue to come out of communist soviet Russia."

Rehabilitation, child welfare, the Legion's position on national defense, and membership activities all were discussed.

"We will promote the 'buy America' movement," he said. "We advocate sound American dollar and ask our government to give careful study to the dangers of inflation. We oppose the entry of the United States into the League of Nations or to adherence to the World Court. . . . We are organizing to give practical assistance in the suppression of crime. We seek to protect our schools from closing, and to promote education generally."

"We want the child labor amendment ratified in every state so that sweat shops will forever cease to exist and adult employment will increase. We are continuing to co-operate fully with the NRA. Our posts are engaged in community service. We want immigration quotas reduced by 90 per cent down to 10 per cent allowed under the 1924 laws, in order that work in America will be kept for Americans."

The Legion is asking only that the man disabled in service of his country be given proper consideration, Samuel said. Regarding national defense he said:

"The Legion's position on national defense is simple. We believe the experts of the army and navy are the only ones in the world who know what an adequate defense should be. The Legion is asking that their minimum recommendations be supported."

Father Offers To Plead Guilty In Child Slaying To Escape Death

DENVER, Dec. 10.—(AP)—District Attorney A. T. Monson today indicated Donald K. Smith's offer to plead guilty to a second degree murder charge for the death of his three-year-old son will be rejected.

"I don't want to die for what I did," Smith told newspapermen. "I didn't premeditate the killing of my baby. It was in sudden anger and through uncontrollable temper that I shook and kicked the baby so hard that he died."

"I am willing to pay for my mistake by taking second degree and life imprisonment, and I believe that's enough because the Lord knows I didn't mean to kill him."

Monson filed a first degree murder charge in the district court at Littleton, Denver suburb. He said he had made no definite decision regarding Smith's offer to "bargain," but that the first degree charge probably will not be withdrawn.

Smith was brought to the Denver jail following his arrest last Thursday because authorities feared a mob might attempt to storm the Littleton jail and lynch him.

The father at first told officers the boy, Donald Arlen Smith, had died of injuries he incurred when he was struck by a door which blew open

$710,000 PWA FUND GRANTED RICHMOND

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Completion of an agreement between the Richmond county board of education and the federal public works administration, under which schools of this county will be granted a loan of $710,000 for new buildings, was announced last night by Ben E. Pierce, attorney for the board, in a telegram from Washington.

Pierce's telegram, addressed to his brother and associate, Wallace B. Pierce, advised that the contract had been approved and signed by administration officials, and that he expected to leave Washington for Augusta tonight with the first advance of the government on the loan.

He was brought to Hamilton county jail here for safekeeping after Sheriff C. L. Coffelt, of Marion county, reported high feeling in the vicinity of Jasper.

The negro, who was caught by Deputy Sheriff George Condra and W. C. Paxton, coal mine superintendent, after a posse had given up the search last night, denied the attempted attack and said he had left when the woman, by whom he was employed, discharged him.

THE WORKS WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Turkey Out of The Straw.

The tragedy of present-day Turkey is the lack of population on a huge and extremely fertile territory. I am seeing Anatolia for the first time in my life. What queer and silly notions we gather in the course of a lifetime on foreign countries and peoples when we never take the trouble to visit them. I always thought Anatolia was little better than a desert. It is, to the contrary, a most luxuriant fruit land, not unlike France, with undulating hills and immense watersheds.

What is true is this: Man has been doing his utmost to make a desert out of this land. In the first place, war upon war has been waged here for centuries. This Asia Minor, was at one time the hub of the world's commerce. There were kingdoms flourished here. Today, they are buried underground and even their names are hard to remember. By the side of every village and town, one sees the ruins of palaces and temples. It is an object lesson for younger peoples whose palaces and temples are still intact and standing today.

It seems inconceivable today that New York should be a weed-growing desolation. But Babylon, a German explorer informed us not so long ago, was even more impressively colossal than New York is at the present day. Sixty sky-scrapers of equal height grouped in semi-circle around a mammoth temple, whose single tower pierced the clouds as the Empire State building today. Babylon is a mere collection of mud-houses today. So is Ephesus; so is Nineveh. They don't know where the site of the city is located. In this land of tombs and ruins, one lives a new people, or at least a people inspired by a new idea.

The Turks are awakening and under the inspiration of Kemal Pasha are building new cities and a new land. The Soviet Arctic expedition has discovered the remains of the Barents and Heemskerk, two Dutch explorers, who tried to find a passage via the North Pole to the East Indies in 1632. The Dutch explorer, who discovered the Barents, was overwintered on Nova Zembla, which means New Zealand. The next year they returned to Holland, and Barents died within sight of the home port. The idea was to find a safe way to India, the southern route being infested with corsairs and with Spaniards, who were at war with Holland at the time.

The Soviet explorers, who came upon the remains of the but, found pots and pans and a yellowed book-keep, still legible. Now the first book I ever read in my life, a Christmas present from my grandfather in 1901, dealt exactly with the expedition of Barents. Every detail of that chronicle stands out as vividly in my mind as if I had read it yesterday. Even the song Barents composed in the long night of winter when bears crawled about outside I once could play on the piano. "Should Ladies Behave?" is a secret regret when I read the account of the Soviet expedition. That's one adventure I would like to have shared—and that's one book I would like to have deciphered.

On December 18, 1858, what Georgia poet died and where was he born? For the two best 20-word original answers to the foregoing question, Loew's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award two pairs of guest tickets to the "Should Ladies Behave?" Answers must be mailed to the Day-by-Day Editor, Constitution, and must bear a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

"Should Ladies Behave?" is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Lionel Barrymore and Alice Brady. This picture started a week's run at the Grand Friday.

Health Talks
BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY
PEACE BE WITH YOU, FRIEND.
It happens regularly when we make any positive assertion here or take a definite point of view or in any way utter an unequivocal opinion, that some of our readers protest or deplore the suggestion or teaching while others applaud or commend it. The expressions of approval are gratifying and all that but it upsets the entire system when anybody avows he feels disappointed or annoyed by our strange attitude. Perhaps it is because folks who like our style tell us, and modesty constrains us to keep the information confidential; whereas folks who don't like our style tell the boss or the head man.

We had a little squib here recently in which we condemned the home-work in second grade elementary schools and poorly named it "high schools." Well, let's drop the quaint affectation—I, of Doc Brady, in the singular, am responsible for what you read in this column—I contribute nothing to the ground that it is destructive to health.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

GUNMEN WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Chicago milk situation has the dealers thoroughly flabbergasted. Those who tried to say the only practical solution is for the government to hire its own gunmen and send them out to enforce the code.

They are convinced gangland is in the milk business almost as deep as it is in beer. And for the same reason—big profits. Seriously the government is at a complete loss as to how to proceed.

PINEAPPLES Its evidence indicates the price-cutting independents are making 100 per cent out of selling milk at 7 cents. The large combine charges around 11 cents. The little fellows are quite content with 100 per cent profit. They swear no code is going to make them charge more. Their prices run all the way down to 5 cents.

One had his store bombed but he charged that up to profit and loss.

It happened the day after a gruff fellow called him on the telephone and suggested he was not very smart selling milk so cheap, because he might awaken some morning and find his store strewn all over the street. It was, within a few hours.

The gruff fellow suggested on the stand that jealous independents had done the job.

Maybe it was spontaneous combustion.

PLEASURE Francis White took the primrose path in making his exit from the new deal.

As a republican, he was exiled to be minister of Czechoslovakia. He left here in March or April, presented his credentials at Prague and immediately started on a tour of Europe. He saw all the sights, and as soon as he was through, he returned to Czechoslovakia and presented his resignation.

That might not have been so bad, but he had the facetious audacity to announce he was resigning because the Roosevelt dollar policy had cut his salary in half.

The laugh is that White's salary is probably the smallest part of his income.

BUSINESS Diplomatic machinists in the state department think they know a lot of better reasons why White quit.

He was quite displeased because he did not get the Cuban ambassadorship or a South American post worthy of his dignity in the first place. He found the Prague job wholly unsuited to his 18 years of experience in Latin American affairs. It was a waste of time anyway because he will rate an ambassadorship if the republicans ever win again—but not before.

By quitting now he did his republican opposition cause a good publicity favor. It enabled him to slam the money policy on his way out.

BONDS The administration put one over on Professor Sprague in the December 15 financing. It was somewhat costly, but probably worth the money from their standpoint.

Financial technicians say the interest rate offered was probably 3-4 of 1 per cent more than the possible rock bottom rate. That estimate may be a little harsh, but certainly considerable gray was added to make sure that the banks gobbled up the offering. They did.

It proved Dr. Sprague was wrong when he said no one wants government bonds.

THOUSAND ATTEND AUGUSTA MEETING AGAINST LIQUOR

city's action branded Augusta as a "city of law breakers" and its citizens as "lawless."

He told the mass meeting the council "had no right to take such a stand for us and me" and that it "misrepresented us."

Dr. McFerrin said the council should see the point of its action and recede from the "intolerable situation" which they have placed us. These lawmakers of ours have no right to brand the people of this city as law-breakers and anarchists.

Solicitor-General George Hains, of the Augusta circuit, expressed the opinion that "Augusta is big enough in every way to settle this thing herself."

The law of Georgia plainly says you can't sell liquor or license liquor. He said, "That place which does sell liquor is a nuisance and is subject to injunction."

"Augusta has not seceded from Georgia," Hains continued. "Augusta wants to remain a part of Georgia. Augusta cannot be a part of Georgia if Augusta says it will not obey Georgia's laws."

He closed with a plea for righteousness, law and order which brought "amusing" applause.

Representative James L. Cartledge, of Richmond county, criticized the action of the council as an effort to nullify the Georgia law on prohibition. He told the mass meeting frankly that he was not prohibitionist, and that he had introduced the unsuccessful beer bill.

Recalling that it is only 12 months until another legislature meets in Atlanta, Cartledge said, "You can then modify this law (the state bone-dry act)."

"There is no question about a majority being in favor of licensing beer and wine," he added, but he opposed any attempts at a "short cut" to that end, and he said was what the city council had tried to do.

He was saying that "everybody knows as much liquor is being sold now as before prohibition," when he was interrupted and told that he was not speaking to the resolution. The interruption brought a storm of applause from the audience and for a time the speaker was unable to continue his speech.

He thanked the people for the support they had given him in the past, and he said he would not be from one of the women sitting in front.

Charles Sancken suggested an amendment "calling on these worthy gentlemen (city council) to rescind their action and we should impeach every officer from the governor down. No action was taken on the suggestion."

The resolution adopted by the meeting set forth the view that the liquor licensing ordinance is "wholly unlawful and contrary to the state bone-dry laws" and "an effort to defy the state law."

It also called upon the law enforcement officers of the city, county, state and nation to "prevent the sale of any city licenses or the sale of any intoxicating beverages within the city of Augusta, Ga."

"This bold attempt to secede from the body politic of Georgia," was the resolution, "we should impeach every officer from the governor down. No action was taken on the suggestion."

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 10.—If you haven't got a feather in your cap this year, your millinery is old stuff according to the Hollywood theory.

Plain hats are crowded into the back-ground of the picture in favor of a sort of gay nineties revival which has brought every type of feather, "toing" the fluffy ostrich from down to glycerated strands and good old samples from the feather duster, to the dignity of an insignia of chic.

The wide-brimmed sailor hat, in pastel shades, is Marion Davies' contribution to the mode. The sailor is pastel blue and she wears it perched at a precarious angle on one side of her head. Glycerated ostrich of the same blue tone is tucked into the hat band at the back.

Myrna Loy is wearing a platinum gray suit furred in platinum fur. The correct note is contributed by a gray beret draped cleverly and carrying a tiny curl of ostrich flat at the back of the crown. You'll see her in this one in "The Fighting and the Lady," and it's a darning.

Efi Dorsey wears the feathered hat in its most modern version. In "Toing" the fluffy ostrich from down to glycerated strands and good old samples from the feather duster, to the dignity of an insignia of chic.

If you want to be glamorous at a cocktail party, you can wear a large black velvet picture hat with loose ostrich drooping from it as does Dorsey.

Key Nears Start of 4th Year Of Stormy Regime as Mayor

Chief Executive, Looking Back on Turbulent Administration, Reported Planning To Run Again.

By HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Text month brings the start of the fourth year of the regime of Mayor James L. Key—one of the most picturesque and turbulent political eras in Atlanta history.

In January Key will begin the last year of a four-year term as mayor of Atlanta, and predictions Sunday were that he will offer for another term.

Pledged to an economy rule which called for holding expenditures within receipts, and sponsoring personal liberty and a liberal Sunday for Atlanta, the mayor's efforts have been successful in the main, even exceeding expectations of his most ardent supporters. General receipts have been cut $1,500,000 a year since he assumed office and expenditures slashed to about the cut.

Hampered by a depleted treasury and the demand for curbing of governmental expenditures and at the same time to reduce property taxes in order to save the municipality from bankruptcy and many businesses from certain receivership, the mayor has given for his goals over the united opposition of reactionaries and conservatives.

Served Eight Years.

Key, when he finishes his term in December, 1934, will have served as mayor of Atlanta as long as any other man, eight years. That record has been equaled only once before and that by James Woodward, who also served eight years.

His entry into the mayoralty contest next year, confidently expected by his friends and enemies alike, will be the signal for another heated controversy, but he appears to have the edge over all candidates mentioned to date.

Three others, however, have been reported as seriously considering a fling at the mayoralty. Public Service Commissioner Ben T. Huiet, former alderman from the third ward; Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, attorney, and former mayor, and Roy LeCraw, prominent Atlanta insurance man. Friends of former Councilman Wiley L. Moore, whom the mayor defeated last year, also are mentioned as candidates, but the rumors that he would enter the lists for a second time.

Key's Accomplishments.

Accomplishments of the Key regime may be summarized briefly as follows:

1. Reduction of $63,000,000 in real estate property values since he took office in January, 1930. This represents $245,000 in revenues from this source alone and a 20.3 per cent reduction in real estate values for Atlanta.
2. Licensing of the sale of 3.2 beer in Atlanta on May 19, 1933, a measure which met with stiff opposition, but which has swelled municipal revenues and which, it is estimated, will bring in $25,000 next year.
3. Voting of an open Sunday for Atlanta, which was accomplished about 10 weeks ago, and which permits motion picture houses to open and allows Sunday athletic contests.
4. Curtailment of city government expense by $1,500,000 a year to absorb reduced incomes. This was done to preserve the city's credit and to call "dead wood" from pay rolls of various departments of the municipality. About 500 were cut from all divisions.

Many Bitter Battles Waged.

Legislative achievements of the administration, however, fail to chronicle the bitter fights through which the mayor has passed, some of which injected political scars he will carry for the rest of his active part in local governmental affairs.

Key was outspoken in his condemnation of what he termed an "unjust prohibition law." He rapped it while he was in Paris, France, at a mayor's convention, and created a national stir. He incensed prohibitionists in Atlanta, and they demanded his political scalp. He refused to retract or back down, and, when he came home, reiterated his assertions that the system had failed.

A group in Atlanta began a futile effort to force his recall. All this was in the first year of his service as mayor.

A few weeks later, however, Key, formerly one of the staunchest friends of labor, a group he had served free of charge in defending them in courts of Atlanta, made demands for additional appropriations for erection of an administration building at Candler field. They wanted the extra money to pay wage scales, they said. He would not set up city funds for such purposes, pointing to the depleted condition of the treasury.

He promptly vetoed a resolution sent from council making the allocation, and the recall efforts of prohibitionists was given impetus as labor joined their ranks.

The recall then got under way in earnest, labor leaders and their friends pushing it to the utmost.

Key again refused to retreat from his position. He stood his ground and firmly told the citizens of Atlanta just what was behind the recall, and urged them to vote.

Key Defeated Recall Move.

And vote they did. Key piled up a 3-to-2 vote against his recall, and more firmly entrenched than ever, continued his work for economy.

He ran into difficulties with his church during his prohibition assertions, however, and was told that unless he would refrain from mentioning prohibition before his large Sunday school class, he would be asked to relinquish his post.

Key refused to be muzzled. He quit and established a non-denominational class in a large Atlanta theater and asked all those who wanted liberty in views and free speech to join him. It still is a large class. He still is the teacher and he says just what he wants to at any time.

Labor has never forgotten its humiliation in the unsuccessful recall drive. It will support a candidate friendly to it in the coming primary. The recall will be fought over again, it is believed—not openly, but under the surface. But if Key is a candidate, he will drag it into the open.

PROWLER IS WOUNDED BY NIGHTWATCHMAN

Negro in Serious Condition; White Man Routs Three Bandits, Saves $200.

The shooting of a negro suspected of being a burglar and the successful resistance of a white man in defending himself when held up by three robbers featured the week-end crimes reported to police Sunday.

Frank Mays, negro, of 366 Terry street, was seriously wounded in the face and chest by a load of gunshot fired by J. N. Wall, of 233 Merritts avenue, N. E., early Sunday morning when Wall, the nightwatchman of the Premier Manufacturing Company, at 978 Gress avenue, S. E., discovered the negro loitering in the yards of the manufacturing company.

Wall reported that he saw Mays in one of the company trucks and that he had been missing gas and tools from the company cars recently. When the negro attempted to escape, Wall shot him. Mays is in Grady hospital and police have not yet booked any case against him.

With $200 in cash at stake, L. F. Bramlett, of 500 Fourth street, N. W., battled with three young white bandits early Sunday morning when they attempted to rob him in front of his home. They beat him with a blunt instrument but Bramlett fired several shots at them with a .22-caliber rifle he was bringing home from his produce market on Marietta street and succeeded in routing them.

A white youth about 21 years of age robbed T. G. Head, of 610 Boulevard, N. E., of a small amount of cash Sunday morning at Hunt street and Ponce de Leon avenue. Head told police.

Pete Vige, of 463 Pryor street, reported that his home was visited by a burglar early Sunday and $47 in cash and a quantity of jewelry stolen. Entrance was gained through a front window.

Liquor Not To Be Legalized Here Until State Acts, Key Tells Class

Calling on the idealists to forget their pet schemes for the moment and offer a helping hand in practical solution of the increasing number of social and economic problems, Mayor James L. Key spoke out in church again Sunday morning in addressing his non-denominational Bible class at the Georgia theater, with severe criticism for Governor Talmadge and the "abstractionist" wing of city council. He then proceeded with his lecture on the International Sunday School lesson on the Apostle Paul, girding out what many of the older members of his class termed the masterpiece of his long career as a Bible teacher.

Mr. Key pointed with pride to a treasury department report this week to the effect that Atlanta's credit now stands at the top of the list of American cities, and as concrete evidence of this fact the federal treasury granted the city loans on her refunding bonds, held by some brokers and legal experts as invalid. "And we are going to keep Atlanta's credit at the topmost round," he said.

Referring to the situation in Augusta, where the city council decided to legalize the sale of liquors as a forerunner of many problems to be expected as a result of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, unless something is done toward giving vent to the will of the people, Mr. Key said the prohibition law would be enforced in Atlanta, and cautioned brewers' agents who are said to be stepping up the 3.2 beer to more than 6 per cent.

"City council licensed 3.2 beer sales because this beverage is not intoxicating," the mayor continued, "but a greater percentage of alcoholic content is intoxicating and its sale will not be permitted in Atlanta until such time as it is legalized by the state."

Mr. Key referred to Governor Talmadge as the one man who could clear the decks for action in solving social and economic problems in Georgia, but predicted the governor would "continue to play politics and do nothing about it."

Expressing his belief that the people of Georgia are anxious for an opportunity to regulate and legalize whiskey sales not only for social advantage but for the economic relief that would be felt by diverting profits from liquor sales from the pockets of the unscrupulous bootlegger to the coffers of the public treasury, Mr. Key said the responsibility is entirely night but a police commissioner was seriously wounded by Iron Guards who resisted a raid on the Bucharest headquarters.

DEPRESSION IS LAID TO 'GOLD CAPITALISM'

Father Coughlin Charges Economic Ills To Efforts To Protect Standard.

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Assailing what he said was a gold standard capitalism's grip on industry, the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, in an address today, charged that the effort to maintain the gold standard was responsible for the depression that began in 1929.

The industrialists, Father Coughlin asserted, are at the mercy of gold standard capitalists and added that money had become, "not the medium of exchange but the medium of control."

Father Coughlin's address was broadcast over an independent radio hook-up.

The crusading priest only once during his address today mentioned the name of J. P. Morgan, reiterating previous charges of financial control reaching into many billions of dollars. He praised a recent resolution by the National Association of Manufacturers as significant, he said, of the support industrialists as opposed to gold standard capitalists are according President Roosevelt in his monetary program.

He predicted the large number of manufacturers who signed the resolution soon would be joined by Henry Ford and others who have not yet announced unqualified support of the Roosevelt recovery program.

"In giving honor where honor is due," Father Coughlin said, in referring to his commendation of the manufacturers' association resolution, "I am in no sense condoning the evils of mass production."

Before financial independence came, said Father Coughlin, there must be a complete divorce of capitalism and industrialism, with capital entitled only to interest on its investment.

Illinois Woman Loses Necklace Worth $70,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger, of Cary, Ill., lost a $70,000 necklace late today during a walk through Central Park from the East 52nd street home of her father, John Hertz, retired taxicab magnate.

The necklace, which Mrs. Ettlinger said was insured in Chicago, consists of 72 graduated pearls and a clasp containing three large diamonds surrounded by four emeralds. Hertz accompanied his daughter on the walk through the park, which lasted two hours. When she removed her coat on their return home, Floyd discovered that the necklace was missing.

Mrs. Ettlinger went at once to a police station to report the loss.

Floyd C. Cooper, 51, a member of the legal and real estate department of the Gulf Refining Company, died Sunday at his residence at 458 North Highland avenue, N. E., after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Dr. Ryland Knight will officiate and interment will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Cooper was a native of Monroe county, having been born on November 20, 1882. His parents moved to Atlanta when he was a child and he attended the Atlanta schools, being graduated from Boys' High school. He had been with the Gulf Refining Company several years. He was a member of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, and of the F. J. Paxton Bible class.

FOUR ON TRIAL TODAY IN SLAYING OF PRICE

Mountain Men Will Be Arraigned in Court at Waynesville, N. C.

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Four mountain men are to go on trial here tomorrow charged with murdering Thomas Price, philanthropist and retired New York railroad executive, who was shot to death near his mountain estate while horseback-riding last September.

The defendants are Dewey Potter, 34; his son, Wayne, 14; Dewey's brother, Clarence, 20, and their cousin, Eric Ledford, 22.

Price, 62-year-old former secretary of the Union Pacific railway, was slain as he rode near his estate on a Sunday afternoon with two employees. There were conflicting statements regarding the shooting.

At a preliminary hearing a few days after the shooting, Doyle Allen, attorney for the quartet, said Dewey Potter shot Price in self-defense after they had met on a trail on the Waynesville watershed near a mica mine for which Potter was caretaker. Allen said Potter was alone.

State attorneys argued it was premeditated murder and presented one witness, George Buchanan, a constable, who said Potter left home with the announced intention of killing Price.

Myers told the officers that he had asked the girl to go to Adel with him to sell shoestrings, exhibiting a bundle of strings to substantiate his statement.

Famous Clowns and Some of the Comical Features To Be in Santa Claus Parade

The parade director has been telling you of many of the unusual sights when you see the Santa Claus parade Friday night, December 15, at 7:30 and now the parade director shows you four of the unique and unusual characters that Santa Claus is bringing with him to Atlanta. Every child in Atlanta will have much to remember after seeing Santa Claus, his real, live Alaskan reindeer and his helpers from the North Pole.

Letters to Santa Claus

Children Writing Best 50 Letters Will Ride in Parade and Get Toy Out of Santa's Sack.

When Santa Claus and his reindeer appear on the streets of Atlanta on Friday night, December 15, at 7:30, they will present to the amazed spectators gathered to do homage to them a most astounding array of beautiful and interesting features.

One of the persons Santa is bringing with him is "Mary" Christmas. "Mary" Christmas is Santa's wife and helper and as such has come to be known in many cities almost as well as the patron saint himself. She has been accompanying Santa on his pre-Christmas visits for several years.

It is "Mary" Christmas who advises with Santa Claus regarding the many interesting playthings and useful presents for boys and girls. However, "Mary" gives more attention to the wants of little girls than to those of little boys. It really requires the experience and consideration of a motherly woman to know just what is best for little girls and that is the reason Santa has been so glad to seek "Mary's" advice in such things.

Older people love "Mary" very dearly and many of them from this section of the country will be on hand to find pleasure in just waving to Santa and "Mary" and in receiving her kisses thrown liberally to the assembled crowds.

"Mary" is like Santa Claus in that she is not old and bent with years. She is old enough to know the pains and joys of life, but she is still young enough to appreciate the problems of little tots and understand the difficulties of older children.

Popular Everywhere. She has a face like a pretty doll, which smiles out from beneath a bright, braided wig with gray curls. She wins the hearts of all who know her for she has found continual youth through thinking only of the goodness of people and doing kind deeds for others.

Along with Santa Claus and "Mary" Christmas there will be many characters of fairy tales that have been loved by children ever since they have been old enough to read or listen to the beautiful tales and legends told to them by their parents.

There will be some floats representing nursery rhymes and carrying such live figures as Little Jack Horner, Mary Quite Contrary, Humpty Dumpty, Peter Rabbit, Peter Pumpkin Eater, Goldilocks, and the Three Bears, Mother Goose, Little Red Riding Hood, Little Bo-Peep, Ginger Bread Man, and others.

There will be five of these nursery rhymes in the parade when it visits Atlanta and no one will want to miss seeing them. Not all of the characters mentioned will be present as it is a strenuous duty to appear in parades all over the country and only Mary Christmas and Santa Claus are equal to greeting all of their friends in every city in which they make an appearance. However, at least five of the characters named will be on hand to thrill and please the children.

Well, you are all going to have an opportunity to see some of these characters in real life when Santa Claus visits Atlanta and they are going to be just a small part of the great parade that will accompany him.

Don't miss the stories in The Constitution between now and the time of the great Santa Claus spectacle for each day some additional feature will be described.

Five More Children Chosen. And now for the five children chosen today to ride in the Santa Claus parade, Friday night, December 15, at 7:30. The first five are the chosen children today, and their letters follow:

Music Lovers To Hear Marion Talley Again

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Marion Talley, opera star who went into voluntary retirement on a farm in her home state in Kansas four years ago, Saturday agreed to appear here as a member of the new Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Paul Longone, director general of the newly organized grand opera company, said he reached Miss Talley by telephone at a hotel in New York where she has been for some time and that she accepted an invitation to sing with the Chicago company which opens for a five-week season December 26.

Contracts for the engagement were dispatched to George Engles, New York manager for Miss Talley.

Miss Talley will resume the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto," in which she made her brilliant debut in New York.

"We have the depression to thank for restoring to operatic ranks one of the foremost artists," Longone said. "Farming with its present day discouragements has pulled on Santa Claus."

90 CODE AUTHORITIES OPERATING FOR NRA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—More than 90 code authorities to govern as many different lines of business and industry have been set up under NRA and authorities now are being organized almost coincident with approval of codes.

Codes approved total 150, and in most cases the setting up of the committees which will direct each industry under NRA is virtually complete. Although preliminary codes on file at NRA would indicate that literally thousands of industries must be organized and authorities set up for each one, NRA believes the total number must be reduced to a few hundred with divisions for minor industries in each major group.

FASHION EXPERT DENIES WOMEN DRESS FOR MEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The contention of some designers that women choose their costumes to please the men was held false Saturday by a foremost stylist, Mrs. Tobie Collier Davis.

"If women actually dressed to suit the men they would be wearing some very funny clothes," she said. "Men are subject to color paroxysms, and if women followed the men's point of view, they would be in a constant array of clashing hues."

"Of course, men are considered to a degree when the women buy their clothes, but I believe the consideration secondary, while the primary aim of the women is to please themselves, and to meet the demands that the majority of other women place on fashion."

She asserted that the "younger generation is a much more promising lot than its predecessors when it comes to taste in clothes."

"Good taste, which is now being taught in schools, is having its results throughout the country," she said. "And increased advantages for traveling complement the young women's school and college education along these lines."

Mrs. Davis expressed the belief that women could be divided into four groups—in their acceptance of what is considered fashionable.

"Just about 2 per cent are what you would call ultra-smart, or those who lead," she said.

"Ten per cent, I would say, follow these leaders very closely, but with certain reservations.

American women make up about 60 per cent. They follow the general lines offered by fashion, but disregard what the first 2 per cent would dictate.

"This group represents the backbone of the country.

"Then from 25 to 30 per cent of the women wear clothes of very bad taste. The nouveau riche are sometimes included in this group."

In Parade With Sister

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

Three New Pictures, One Return, Opened Runs Here Over Week-End

By RALPH T. JONES.

Three new pictures and a return engagement of one so good that it has already played a three-week first run, constitute the new attractions which made their bows on Atlanta screens over the week-end.

The Paramount offering "Jimmy and Sally," a business romance of the Satepost variety with James Dunn and Claire Trevor as the leading team. At the Georgia there is a film which is, in many respects, the most remarkable screen production yet released. It is "The Invisible Man," made from a story by H. G. Wells. The method by which the camera makes an invisible character a real person is astounding and will provoke oceans of discussion before the picture ends its run next Friday night.

At the Rialto "Lady for a Day" is back for a return showing of one week. This heart-moving and laugh-provoking story of the old "Apple Annie" of Broadway drew capacity crowds for three consecutive weeks when first shown and, including those who will go to see it for the second, third or fourth time, will undoubtedly repeat its former success on this, its fourth week at the Rialto.

One of the most delightful screenizations of a thoroughly charming novel is playing its first-run Atlanta engagement at the Buckhead theater. It is "The Good Companions," made from J. B. Priestley's novel of the same name. It is remarkable for the real genius of its direction, for the perfection of casting, for some splendid songs and for the prize-winning pulchritude of its star, Jessie Matthews.

"Jimmy and Sally" at the Paramount is a production cast in the well-remembered mold. The young business man, this time press agent for a meat-packing concern, is in love with his secretary. But he is overcome with his own conceit and generally makes a mess of his business, his life and his romance.

A short sequence showing him out of work, then tossing around sides of beef as a day laborer, is supposed to be sufficient evidence of an entire change in character and a reform that warrants restoration of his old job, a close-up clinch with the girl and imminent wedding bells as the final fadeout. May be.

As the boy, Jimmy Dunn is Jimmy Dunn, although Claire Trevor gives an appealing and sympathetic performance as the girl, Lynn Lora, the vamp of the plot, sings a disturbing song "You Give Me a Thrill" in disturbingly husky fashion and Dunn himself surrenders to the musical trend long enough to sing "It's the Irish in Me" in a pleasant enough parlor tenor.

Cartoon, newswear and a musical revue short complete the Paramount bill.

"The Invisible Man" at the Georgia is, as stated, the most remarkable of trick camera productions. It is also a horror mystery film and a remarkably well made and well-acted production.

If you can explain how the camera makes it appear that when enveloping bandages are removed there is no head under them and when the hero strips you cannot see his body, you know more about such things than this commentator. The scene where the man is not seen, is also uncanny and impossible and the way in which you see the impression of a head on a pillow, or a sitter in a chair, and nothing more, is startling.

But, unless I'm mistaken, the supposedly naked man left shoe tracks in the snow and, at one place, he ran over sand and left no tracks at all. However, these minor points don't detract from a swell film.

Harry Langdon is particularly good in a Georgia short comedy and there is, as well as an entertaining cartoon comedy.

"The Good Companions," at the Buckhead, is a British production distributed in this country by Fox. It is a particularly artistic picture. Its appeal is universal, but at the same time it will probably be appreciated more by the more intelligent audience. Nearly everybody read the book and all who did find no disap-

Gaynor and Baxter In 'Paddy' at Capitol

At the Capitol now showing is "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in the leading roles. This is a second-run engagement of a picture that scored heavily when it originally played at the Paramount. The story is laid in Ireland where Janet is the younger daughter of an impecunious but always lovable Irish country gentleman, played by Walter Connolly.

Warner Baxter is the wealthy visitor who, though intended as the suitor of the older sister—and, concomitantly, the financial savior of the entire family—falls in love with Janet. How he finally wins her provides an idyllic and charming sort of romance.

Pointment in the picture. For Priestley's spirit of carefree romance is wonderfully transposed to the screen. Jessie Matthews is especially good as Susie Dean and is always attractive, though her charm is best displayed in those scenes where she wears the fewest clothes. The entire cast is wonderfully suited to the roles and the direction has been done with a touch of genius.

There are three or four fine songs, worked in with perfect propriety, since the story, you doubtless remember, is about a troupe of traveling entertainers among the smaller towns of England. It will show through Wednesday.

"Lady for a Day" at the Rialto, while other well-known players include Dixie Dixon, comedian, and Valdez and Peggy, eccentric dancers. Hap and Flo Farnell, Ray Kolb and other favorites are held over from last week. There will be the usual performances every night of the week at 8:30 and matinees every day except Monday at 2:30. Reserved seats at the box office which opens daily at 10 a. m.

"Should Ladies Behave" at Loew's Grand and "Sitting Pretty" at the Fox, were reviewed in Saturday's Constitution.

But there'll be enough repeat customers to fill the theater every night of the week, anyway. New and clever short subjects are also on this bill.

EVENING SCHOOL'S DRAMATIC CLASS TO PRESENT PLAYS

First public work of the dramatic class of the University System of Georgia Evening School of Commerce will be presented at 8 o'clock Friday night at the school, 223 Walton street, in the form of two one-act plays, "Suppressed Desires" and "Maker of Dreams." The religious play, "Everyman," will be presented at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, December 17. This is the first season drama has been taught at the evening school. Nell Childs Booth is the instructor of this department. A nominal charge of 10 cents will be made for admission Friday night. Professor George M. Sparks, in a short talk between plays, will extend Christmas greetings. Although no admission will be charged Sunday night, a collection will be taken for charity.

New Burlesque Show At Atlanta Tonight

The Atlanta, local home of burlesque, announces "Town Scandals" as its attraction this week, with many new people among the principals and some young and peppy replacements for the ranks of the chorines.

Atlanta welcomed the return of burlesque last week with large crowds and, with the improved performance that the names of the new players promise, the entertainment ought to be still more to the taste of lovers of burlesque this week.

Snooky Woods, a sensational acrobatic dancer, is here this week, coming from the Empire theater in Boston, while other well-known players include Dixie Dixon, comedian, and Valdez and Peggy, eccentric dancers. Hap and Flo Farnell, Ray Kolb and other favorites are held over from last week. There will be the usual performances every night of the week at 8:30 and matinees every day except Monday at 2:30. Reserved seats at the box office which opens daily at 10 a. m.

"Should Ladies Behave" at Loew's Grand and "Sitting Pretty" at the Fox, were reviewed in Saturday's Constitution.

It takes Healthy Nerves

FOR JAFFEE TO BE THE WORLD'S CHAMPION SKATER

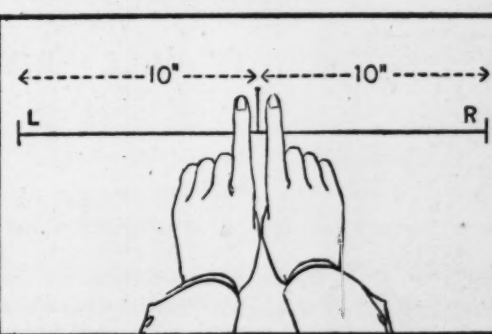

IRVING JAFFEE

(At Right)—Again Jaffee makes a thrilling finish as he speeds to victory! Winner of 1,000 medals and trophies, including three Olympic Skating Championships, Jaffee has brought the highest skating honors to the U.S.A. Asked recently if he was a steady smoker, Jaffee said, "Yes—but that goes for Camels only. I have to keep my mind, you know, and healthy nerves."

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES?

TRY THIS TEST

Draw a line twenty inches long on the edge of a newspaper. Stick a straight pin in the exact center. Place a forefinger on either side of the pin. Close your eyes...try to measure off quickly the distances by moving both hands at the same time. Have a watcher stop you when you reach the edge. See if both your fingers have moved the same distance. Most people try this at least six times before both hands come out evenly.

Frank Crilly (Camel smoker), famous deep-sea diver, completed the test on his second try.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

You've often seen his name and picture in the papers—Jaffee, the city-bred boy from the U.S.A. who beat the best Olympic skaters that Europe had to offer, and became the skating champion of the world! Speaking of speed skating and cigarettes, Jaffee says: "It takes healthy nerves and plenty of wind to be an Olympic skating champion. I find that Camels, because of their costlier tobaccos, are mild and likable in taste. And, what is even more important to a champion athlete, they never upset the nerves." Change to Camels and note the difference in your nerves...in the pleasure you get from smoking! Camels are milder...have a better taste. They never upset your nerves. Begin today!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Camel pays millions more—for your enjoyment.

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS

NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES NEVER TIRE YOUR TASTE

TOBACCO PROGRAM FOR '34 APPROVED

Plans Designed To Limit Burley Crop to 250,000,000 Pounds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A production adjustment program designed to limit the 1934 burley tobacco crop to approximately 250,000,000 pounds and improve prices to growers was announced today by the agricultural adjustment administration.

Growers who sign agreements to reduce their acreage will receive about $15,000,000 from the government. Approximately $3,000,000 of this, representing rental for acreage removed from production, will be paid when the agreement is executed properly, and the remainder will be distributed later as adjustment payments based on the sales value of the growers' 1933 crop.

Growers participating in the program will have the option of reducing their production either 33 1/3 or 50 per cent of their base acreage and base tobacco production.

The base tobacco acreage and base tobacco production for an individual farm, according to the agreement, shall be one of the following: (a) The average acreage and production for 1932 and 1933; (b) 80 per cent of the average acreage and production for 1931, 1932 and 1933; (c) 80 per cent of the average acreage and production for 1932; (d) 75 per cent of the average acreage and production for 1932 and 1933.

Administration officials pointed out that the choices allowed growers in selecting a base will permit any grower to sign an agreement and qualify for payments if he grew tobacco in 1931, 1932 or 1933.

Should any farmer who signs an agreement produce less tobacco in 1934 than his initial production allotment, he will receive as part of the adjustment payments two cents for each pound that the amount grown falls short of the allotment.

Conversely, if he grows more than the allotment, under the terms of the agreement he shall dispose of the excess as the secretary of agriculture may direct.

The tobacco agreement will run with the land, and it also includes clauses designed to protect tenant farmers. If any or all the tobacco grown on an individual farm in 1933 was grown by share tenants or share croppers, the agreement provides that the producer "shall not reduce the number of such tenants and, or, croppers so engaged in 1933, because of reductions in tobacco acreage and tobacco production, or because of other provisions in this contract."

The pact provides for distribution of adjustment payments to share tenants or share croppers as their interests may appear, but the land rental payment will be made to the landowners.

A burley tobacco control association will be established in each county producing burley tobacco, and growers signing agreements will become members of these associations automatically.

The primary function of the associations will be to certify agreements signed by burley producers and to certify the performance of the agreements.

Experiments at Cornell University show that vitamin G in ratios of young chicks will promote growth and reduce losses by death.

Large Increases Are Shown In Coal, Iron Ore Shipments

31,246,670 Net Tons Are Moved Over Great Lakes Compared With 24,563,391 Net Tons in 1932.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—(AP)—When the Ore and Coal Exchange reached into a hat Saturday and pulled out an imposing array of figures, it was no mere magician's trick; it was an attempt to show that industry, at last, has begun sighting above its shoe tops.

The hat was the basin of the Great Lakes, the digits were the mathematical picture of coal and iron ore shipments on those waters during the season of 1933, which nominally closes tomorrow.

To get a perspective on the impressive increase in business of the rail carriers—which operate the exchange—and the lake cargo boats, it is necessary to go back a few years, even beyond the 1929 crash.

It is bromide that practically anything can be proved with figures, including the allegation that the world is flat and hemmed at the edges with Reticella lace. H. M. Griggs, general manager of the exchange, took this into account in offering his data for public consumption.

Big Increase. "These figures," he said, with an apologetic smile of pardonable pride, "were not arrived at through higher mathematics. Our cargo coal loadings, for instance, comprise a simple aggregation of items reported to the exchange. They show 31,246,670 net tons for this year, compared with only 24,563,391 for 1932.

Total ore shipments on the Great Lakes for the 1933 season were 21,623,895 gross tons, compared—and mark this carefully—with only 3,576,955 gross tons last year. That contrasts with a high of 45,204,000 tons in the summer year of 1929, but—

and mark this, too—with 23,810,000 tons for the four-year average starting in 1929."

The cargo coal tonnage for this year includes only an estimate of this week's loadings as the shipping season closes.

But to go back a bit, that 31 million-ton compares very favorably with the coal loadings in 1919, when slightly less than 22,000,000 tons found their way into lake bottoms, right after the World War. The figure is more impressive when that 31 million-ton is shown not to have been exceeded from 1919 through 1929.

Slightly Less. As for iron ore, the 21 1/2 million-plus gross tons shipped on the Great Lakes this season was only slightly less than the 23,467,780 shipped in 1931. Mr. Griggs remarked in passing that in 1930, when depression had not yet begun sinking its fangs in business earnestly, shipments amounted to 46,852,000 gross tons.

What does it mean? Ore consumption at the moment, according to figures reaching the exchange, is at about 2,000,000 tons monthly, compared with a normal 4 to 4 1/2 millions. Great piles of raw metal are weathering on the south shore of Lakes Michigan and Erie. Those accumulation, believes Mr. Griggs, mean manufacturers are convinced a pickup in demand for fabricated metal, perhaps greater than that experienced this year, is imminent.

To turn to coal, storing has proceeded all this season, and the exchange manager believes that industry, the by-product plant and the furnaces are reasonably sure of using it in great quantities with the turn of the new year. Again, he cites, coal for the "head of the lakes" (American ports on Lake Superior) has decreased in percentage of total lake shipment consistently since 1927. Particularly has this decrease been noticeable since 1930.

This means, to quote the exchange manager, that better than 77 per cent of the coal shipments can be placed, roughly, in the industrial class. "Head of the lakes" shipments in 1933 comprised only 7,693,351 tons out of a total of 31,246,670. The shipments to Lake Superior points generally are classed as consignments for domestic use.

Cuban Circles Stirred By 3 Resignations

HAVANA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An impending cabinet crisis held the center of the political stage today, as the resignations of Secretary of Interior and War and Navy Antonio Guterres, Secretary of Labor Fernandez Velasco, and Secretary of Agriculture Carlos Hevia awaited President Grau San Martin's acceptance.

Secretary Guterres has emphatically denied he was conspiring against the Grau San Martin regime, but rumors grow stronger that he is planning to gain control of the government.

He has repeatedly said he would resign if the government did not follow a "more leftist course," and he has firmly combated plans for a conciliation pact with rightist politicians.

Secretaries Fernandez Velasco and Hevia have refused to give definite reasons for their resignations, but it is understood in high political circles their sympathies are with Guterres.

GERMANY SEEKING TO GET COLONIES LOST UNDER TREATY

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Recovery of at least some of the German colonies lost under the Treaty of Versailles at the end of the war is being pursued with increasing energy by the Nazi regime, under whose auspices a large mass meeting was held today for various public bodies.

Speakers at the meeting put forward the claim that a policy of colonial recovery for Germany "should be within the range of attainment," and the charge made in the Versailles treaty that the Germans were bad colonizers was strenuously refuted by Dr. Heinrich Schnee, former governor of German East Africa and former member of the reichstag.

Schnee cited former President Theodore Roosevelt who said that German and British had equal rank in the work of colonizing Africa. He said the best proof that the Germans were humane colonizers was the loyalty of African natives to the German cause in the World War.

Atrocities such as have been committed in the French and Belgian colonies, he declared, were the result of their form of government which had created colonies, the Germans were second to none in their ability to hold their own in that field. Their only fault, he said, was that they had not colonized with sufficient "national egoism."

Wilhelm Kube, former fascist floor-leader in the Prussian diet, said that of all great nations, independent of their form of government which had created colonies, the Germans were second to none in their ability to hold their own in that field. Their only fault, he said, was that they had not colonized with sufficient "national egoism."

But to go back a bit, that 31 million-ton compares very favorably with the coal loadings in 1919, when slightly less than 22,000,000 tons found their way into lake bottoms, right after the World War. At present the government keeps more gold in the San Francisco and Philadelphia mints and the New York assay office than it does here, but Denver's location—in the Rockies—has been recommended by the treasury department and public works administration approval is expected. Since its organization for production in 1906, the mint has collected nearly half a billion dollars in gold, silver and copper money for Uncle Sam.

With its increased facilities, the mint's vaults will have room to store an almost unlimited amount of gold and silver bullion and coined money, according to Mark A. Skinner, superintendent.

At present the government keeps more gold in the San Francisco and Philadelphia mints and the New York assay office than it does here, but Denver's location—in the Rockies—has been recommended by the treasury department and public works administration approval is expected. ## Relief Agency To Buy 12,000,000 Dozen Eggs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Eggs today were added to the list of food to be given the needy, with the federal emergency relief administration ordering the surplus relief corporation to buy 12,000,000 dozen.

The relief corporation, which is headed by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, already is buying hogs which are to be turned into bacon. Salt pork, beans, canned beef, and mutton also are being distributed to the unemployed.

Hopkins indicated the eggs will be taken from the surplus in storage in Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Chicago. His announcement said there were 2,500,000 cases in storage throughout the country, principally in these four cities.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL WILL MEET HITLER

ROME, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Eulio Savich, Italian undersecretary of foreign affairs, left today for Berlin to discuss disarmament and reform of the League of Nations with Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

A rumor that Savich would invite Hitler to Rome to confer with Premier Mussolini was not confirmed. He also will hold conversations with Konstantin Von Neurath, German foreign minister. German ambassador to Rome, Ulrich Von Hassel, gave a goodbye to Savich at the station.

The issue of foreign overhauls was injected when the United States placed an obstacle to the proposal to amend the League of Nations, pending consideration of whether non-American participation coincided with conference objectives.

Since the incident, which appears to be subsiding, it appears probable that the League will withdraw its request for official cognizance of its outlook, or at least not press it.

Massachusetts Guards Thwart Prison Break

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Five criminals, three of them serving life sentences, who tried to escape from the state prison at Charlestown late today, were captured and placed in solitary confinement after they had set fire to a portion of the prison.

Three alarms were sounded for the fire and 200 policemen armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs, formed a ring about the prison.

The prisoners were returning to their cells late this afternoon after attending a moving picture show. They left the line during the march back to the cells and succeeded in reaching the brush and blanket shop, a four-story brick building.

Guards on the wall saw smoke coming from the shop. Soon the prisoners emerged, carrying a rope to the end of which a hook had been attached. Their apparent purpose was to catch the hook on the top of the stone wall and escape by climbing the rope.

Peek Is Being Urged To Stay in U.S. Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Peek was being brought to court tonight on George N. Peek, farm administrator, to induce him to remain in the government service as the week-long controversy over his resignation dragged forward.

Peek declined to discuss the possibility of his resignation from the farm administration or his possible acceptance of a place as head of an export division in the state department.

That he might continue in his present post was regarded as extremely improbable by department officials who said that in the interest of economy, if nothing else, his resignation was desirable.

Chester C. Davis, production administrator under Peek, has been mentioned frequently as the probable successor of his chief, with whom he has worked on various projects for the past 10 years. Davis said today that if the post should be offered to him he would not consider it without first discussing the matter with Peek.

ROCKIES TO SERVE AS U. S. FORTRESS AT MINT IN DENVER

DENVER, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The vast Rockies which have yielded millions in gold to miners will serve as a natural fortress to help protect the government's largest metal treasure, if plans for enlarging the Denver mint receive public works administration approval.

A proposed $500,000 addition to the mint has been recommended by the treasury department and public works administration approval is expected. Since its organization for production in 1906, the mint has collected nearly half a billion dollars in gold, silver and copper money for Uncle Sam.

With its increased facilities, the mint's vaults will have room to store an almost unlimited amount of gold and silver bullion and coined money, according to Mark A. Skinner, superintendent.

$2,103,750 IS BID FOR HURT BUILDING

Bondholders To Begin Consideration of Offer by S. A. Lynch Today.

Bondholders of the Hurt building today will begin consideration of an offer of $2,103,750 in cash for Atlanta's largest office structure, made by S. A. Lynch, New York theater magnate, who formerly resided in Atlanta.

William C. Wardlaw, chairman of the committee of bondholders, said Sunday that a hearing in federal district court in New York city before Judge Julian Mack had been set for January 3, at which time all bids for the 17-story building will be considered.

Lynch's cash offer for the Hurt building was disclosed in Atlanta after letters had been mailed to the 3,000 bondholders to reach them today, telling of the bid and asking their opinions as to the advisability of acceptance. If the bondholders approve, Judge Mack will give permission for the sale. The judge's action will be guided by the wishes of the bondholders.

holders, Wardlaw said. The Hurt building, largest in the southeast with more than 1,000 offices, was built with an original bond issue of $4,500,000, which was reduced by $850,000. A second block of bonds of $500,000 was issued later but in the last two years, during which the building has been operated under reversals, more than $500,000 has accrued, it was said. This sum will figure in the refinancing under new ownership. The structure is now owned by the Atlanta Realty Company, of which Joel Hurt Jr. is president; Sherwood L. Hurt, vice president, and J. L. Roberson, secretary and treasurer.

Rumors of other offers to be made by Atlantans and a group of eastern businessmen have been heard but Mr. Wardlaw said only Lynch's bid was under consideration at present.

Culbertson on Contract

A Self-Operating Squeeze
BY ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The unusual situation of a declarer who finds himself with 9 tricks laid down at his contract of three trump, but is unable to realize them in actual play is illustrated on the hand below, which was sent to me by Dr. Ernest Grether, of Midland, Mich. The reason why North, the declarer on this hand, could not cash all his tricks was that his opponents were able to place him in a position where he could do nothing but squeeze himself.

Defensive situations such as this do sometimes occur at the bridge table. A good player recognizes them instinctively. They occur when the player or the other place the lead either in the dummy or closed hand—usually the former—knowing that the declarer has no cards of entry remaining in his own holding.

The hand was:

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♠ A Q 3	9 8 7 4 2

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanation paragraphs.)

North East South West
2NT(1) Pass 2♠(2) Pass
2NT(3) Pass Pass Pass

1—North has 5 honor-tricks, and even balanced hand and what some players consider a strong indication of a strong suit. South does not have a strong suit, but a king and queen in the heart, and a king and queen in the spade, and a king and queen in the club, and a king and queen in the diamond.

2—An opening two-trump bid is, of course, very unusual. South does not have a strong suit, but a king and queen in the heart, and a king and queen in the spade, and a king and queen in the club, and a king and queen in the diamond.

3—South's response, of course, encourages North to bid for game, and his balanced distribution, together with his toward strength in clubs, suggests trump as the best final contract.

The opening lead was a spade, which declarer won in his own hand with the ace and then laid down the ace, king and another club. West, in the lead, returned a spade, and while this permitted the declarer to cash six club tricks, he was unable to cash a trick in either hearts or diamonds, the result being that his contract was defeated 1 trick. Obviously, to refuse to cash the established tricks in dummy would prove equally ineffective as then East and West must take two spade tricks and sufficient tricks in the other suits to make the defeat even more decisive.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
If you are declared South at a contract of six hearts, what plan of play is most likely to assure the fulfillment of the contract?

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North and South vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Her father has gambled away all their combined fortune, but the girl, Irene Ferguson, announces that she must sail at once on an important mission. Vernon, whose identity is unknown to her, slips an "crew." Three old men, a banker, a judge and a minister, who have been brought in answer to the appeal, are proceeding when Irene explains that she must rescue her little brother, who is held for ransom on an island, Little Cane Key. Arriving at the island, after a severe storm, Vernon finds that Irene has some ashore, leaving a note in which she explains that her money is gone, but she has an alternative. Her brother is being held by "Dummy" Squales and his pal, Panake Pete. Squales sends an old negro for the minister.

Black Tack High Gun Club in End of Gun Club Skoot Shoot

GRAY SECOND; ROOPER WINNER IN HANDICAP

R. J. Minehan Next in Added Birds Group; Great Crowd There.

By Jack Troy.

It was quite a shoot. Considering there was one of the finest gatherings for any skoot shoot ever held here, it had to be.

There was a gradual influx of sportsmen, their wives and interested spectators at the West End Gun Club, until recently the Capitol View Gun Club, yesterday.

It was the climax of a two-day skoot shoot. And the climax found such an assemblage as required the employment of rude elbow-shoving to penetrate.

Incidentally, competition was as keen as any shoot in recent years has witnessed. Here's an example. If all the groceries won by Buddy Gray, southern district champion, and holder of the world's record for 1,000 targets, were placed end to end, starting Armenians would still entertain that hollow feeling.

NO PRIZE FOR BUDDY. Buddy, a great pal nonetheless, was in the competition insofar as registering was concerned. But as for winning any prizes—no.

Jack Troy, whose feats of late have included the winning of two hands on consecutive Saturdays, was high gun, shooting from scratch, yesterday. Jack is a son of Charley Troy and a partner with his father at the Capitol Gun Club. He was the big winner at the West End club. Wind or no wind he had 48,550, which is so close to perfect there is nothing else to say.

Jack Gray, manager of the airport and one of the chief marksmen out at the Airport Gun Club, came a second with 46,550. Which is without comment, a fine shoot under any conditions.

In the handicap division S. W. Roper, who had a 52,550—added birds putting him over a perfect score—won first prize. Mr. Roper is a member of the West End Gun Club. Second prize in this division was won by R. J. Minehan, of the Capitol Gun Club, who had 47,550.

DOCTORS THERE. A number of doctors took part in yesterday's shoot. Included were Dr. LeRoy Childs, Dr. O. T. Malone, Dr. W. Goodpasture, Dr. Julian Riley, Dr. Phillips, Dr. Woods and Dr. O. A. Linch.

O. B. Keeler was one of the interested observers. O. B. is, of course, a fine marksman. In addition he is president of the Atlanta Rifle Club and a translocator of long and honored standing. He has not yet added his mark to the list. He says the birds fly too fast to shoot. He is suspected that O. B. is just giving his time. When he decides to give it, he will be another crack shooter added to the long list of skoot enthusiasts.

Captain Hicks was out for a time. He delighted the sportsmen with a fine exhibition. He was with a .410-gauge shotgun. He made such feats as breaking five clay targets tossed simultaneously into the air in a trice as easily as catching rabbits in a trap.

PROS SHOOT. Professionals who went the rounds included Al Freese, Captain Hicks, W. W. Moore and Jimmy Hawks.

Others compiling good scores included J. B. Duke, Benson Freeman Jr., T. C. Mayo, Buddy Jones, Ashby Ray, Al Freese, Captain Hicks, W. W. Moore and Jimmy Hawks.

At least 20 ladies looked on yesterday. They included Mrs. Jack Gray, Mrs. Howard Phillips, Mrs. W. Goodpasture, Miss Helaine Goodpasture, Mrs. LeRoy W. Childs, Mrs. G. A. Howell, Mrs. G. E. Light, Mrs. Charles H. Phillips, Mrs. J. Draper, Mrs. H. O. Davis, Mrs. S. J. Draper, Miss Ruth Dillan, Miss Margaret Parker, Mrs. O. W. Brock, Mrs. Vilma Brock, Mrs. J. C. Cobb, Mrs. Charles Brock, Mrs. R. H. Richardson, Mrs. Charles Nunnally, Mrs. Dave Black, Miss Lena Knox, Mrs. H. O. Davis Jr., Mrs. S. W. Roper, Miss Leahon, Mrs. R. H. Richardson, Mrs. Virginia Lutz, Miss Elizabeth Axtree, Miss Liza Tway and Mrs. Charles Tway.

Mr. H. H. and W. C. Holleman, of Beck & Gregg; Oscar Brock, his father, Dr. Witt Brock and Bob Axtree were among the men visitors.

William Shelly Jr. and his son, William Shelly Jr., were initiated into the skoot pastime for the first time and did very well. Mr. Howard Brock and his son smashed 18. Mr. Zepherus, a friendly fellow, was the only professional who enjoyed the sport.

FAST SQUAD. A fast squad escorted the visitors during the afternoon. The squad included W. W. Moore, 19,225; Buddy Jones, 24,225; Al Freese, 20,225; Jimmy Hawks, 19,225; and Jack Gray, 21,225.

As a matter of record there were 129 rounds shot yesterday. The hard-hitting team boys, Willie Hall and Tommy Craven did not have to be rocked to sleep last night.

To C. L. Davis, secretary; T. R. Duke, field captain, aided by S. W. Roper and J. P. Draper, goes credit for the splendid handling of the shoot.

There will be a turkey and fruit cake shoot next Sunday at the West End Gun Club. And who with increased interest and all sportsmen who like to shoot without being crowded are advised to go early.

The skoot is headed somewhere. It is headed right past the fondest expectations of its sponsors.

Aaroneans Win Title Game, 40-30

Aaroneans won a basketball title last night by defeating S. L. J. junior 1, court. Sugarman and Rubin led the winners with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

It was the second victory out of a three-game series for Aaroneans and gave them the right to represent Atlanta in the southern tournament at Birmingham December 24.

GO F FACTS NOT THEORIES

POSITION OF HANDS ON CLUB SHOULD BE MAIN THE SAME THROUGHOUT SWING

Alex Morrison says: Above all things a golfer should know what his hands are doing with the club.

It's not enough to feel that one hand or the other is exerting considerable pressure on the club. The player must know the position of each hand during every stage of the swing.

Most golfers do not even keep track of the position of their hands in the starting position for the swing.

And once the swing starts they lose all sense of what the hands are doing outside of trying to strangle the club.

One simple thing will do much to help you keep track of your hands and thereby exercise better control over the club and that is to keep them touching one another throughout the entire swing.

CLIPPER SMITH MAY LOSE JOB

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The joint faculty and alumni athletic committee of North Carolina State College will meet here tomorrow for a general discussion of the "whole athletic situation" at the institution.

Announcement that the meeting has been called was made tonight by T. S. Johnson, acting chairman of the committee.

There have been recurrent reports that John P. "Clipper" Smith, head coach of football, will be replaced, possibly by his assistant, Frank Reese, backfield coach, but Johnson did not comment on this possibility.

"The joint committee will meet for a general discussion of the whole athletic situation, including the addition to the stadium," he said.

Smith has been head football coach at State for the past three seasons. His 1933 team won only one game, losing to Duke, Wake Forest and North Carolina.

At the season, but played so-called "Swede" Hansen, the Eagles' home star from the Temple, sprinted 61 yards for a score and Davis converted.

J. P. C. Basketeers Swamp Macon Five

The Jewish Progressive Club basketball team opened its 1933-34 season last night with a lopsided 73-30 victory over the Macon five at the center court of Macon on the J. P. C. Center.

Fine passing featured play of the J. P. C. team.

Ernie led the score with 19 points, followed by Friedland with 16. The showing of the team pointed to a successful season.

In a preliminary game the J. P. C. Reds defeated the Fulton National Bank quintet, 49 to 15.

Warburton Leads Coast Players

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The far west presented Irvine Warburton today as the outstanding individual star of the 1933 football season.

The diminutive University of Southern California quarterback won about every individual honor in the country.

Besides All-American and All-Coast recognition, he romped off with individual scoring honors among Pacific coast conference players.

Two touchdowns against Washington yesterday brought his total to 72 points. Southern California played 12 games this season.

Interest Increases In Physical Work

Interest in physical work at the Atlanta Athletic Club has increased in recent months until an expansion of the facilities has been made necessary.

As the building of additions has been engaged in, competitive athletics, not a single volleyball court was used. Now the noon class has increased in size until the courts are in use every day during the noon hour.

The same increased interest is shown in handball. The one four-wall handball court at the club was used only once a week until the next, but now members are signing up ahead of time to secure the court. The athletic committee is considering the building of additional courts.

Six one-wall courts are now available, but these may be added to later on.

Physical Director Joe Bean's "physical fitness" class is increasing in membership daily. Each member of this class is given personal attention so that his exact needs are made known and taken care of. This service is available free to all members.

Joe has made physical fitness the watchword and this has caused many members to take more interest in athletics and physically who were not using the facilities that have been available at the club all along.

Some of the new building of this group are: C. Murphy, O. R. Randall, M. C. Browning, Clarence Mowle, C. A. Smith, W. W. Cole and O. L. Vogel.

At the time of the abolishment of competitive athletics at the A. A. C. it looked like the doom of the "athletic" feature of the club, but instead it has turned the attention of the physical director and directors to the members, and of the members to the physical facilities, until now a great percentage of the members get some actual good out of the gymnasium and its adjuncts. This emphasizing of physical fitness has led to an increase in membership until the membership is now nearly as large as it was before the depression, and the club has never, even in the worst years of the depression, failed to make expenses. The membership dues are now as low as they were when the new building was first occupied many years ago.

BEARS DEFEAT PACKERS; NAME PLAYOFF SITE

Wrigley Field Is To Be Scene of Title Game Sunday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears won the right to defend their championship of the National Professional Football league on their home grounds as they finished the regular season with a 7-2-1 record, victory over the Green Bay Packers.

The triumph gave the Bears, western division titleholders, a percentage of .833 for the season, gained from 10 victories, two defeats and a tie. The New York Giants, winners in the eastern division, also marked the 10th anniversary of their championship, whipping the Philadelphia Eagles, 20 to 14. But the Giants suffered three defeats against 11 victories for a 7-2-1 record.

The team finishing with the higher percentage was to get the privilege of choosing the site for next Sunday's playoff game.

TOO MUCH SNOW. A third game on today's schedule, the Portsmouth Spartans meeting the Pittsburgh Pirates at Columbus, Ohio, was postponed a week because of snow.

Both of the windup games were real thrillers. Clark Hinkle, the Packers' star back who received his training at Bucknell, took the opening kickoff and ran 95 yards before he was pulled down on the 5-yard line.

The Bears stood off that threat and made a touchdown in the second quarter when Keith Molesworth tossed a 37-yard forward pass to Ronzani, who dodged over from the 5-yard stripe.

Glenn Manders kicked an extra point and that was what won the game. In the fourth period Bob Monnet, formerly of Michigan State, rushed for a touchdown.

Link Lyman, Chicago tackle, broke through and blocked Hinkle's kick for the extra point.

DECIDING SCORE. The Giants and the Eagles, playing on a snow-covered field, staged a nip-and-tuck scoring match that finally was decided in the fourth quarter when Elvin (Kink) Richards took a pass from Harry Newman and dashed 60 yards for the third New York touchdown.

Newman scored for the Giants in the second quarter only to have Roger Kirman, one-time Washington and Jefferson player, even it with a 64-yard touchdown run.

Philips, a fullback, fumbled in the third quarter and the Giants turned it into a touchdown by Richards but failed to make the extra point. This left Philadelphia take the lead for the first time.

"Swede" Hansen, the Eagles' home star from the Temple, sprinted 61 yards for a score and Davis converted.

THE PORTLIGHT By Thaurillon Rice

BACK IN THE SADDLE.

So one of the famous Four Horsemen is riding again. Elmer Layden, running mate of Crowley, Miller and Stuhlmeier is taking the trail, not at whirling his slender, wiry body through or around opposing defense, but at directing the destiny of the team on which he rode to fame.

Notre Dame has made a wise selection in calling Layden to the post of head coach and director of athletics. His success in the field of coaching since leaving South Bend abundantly qualifies him for the job.

In the last 20 years, his qualifications to steer the Irish back to the crest again.

Sixty-Eight Mixtures. There has been an unlimited number of arguments as to which nation carries the greatest amount of courage, alertness or competitive spirit under fire.

Mr. Robert Zupke, head coach of Illinois, ought to be an authority on this subject. So we put the matter up to the eminent coach, philosopher and painter.

"I have had men of just 68 different nationalities on my teams. Some of these, of course, were mixtures. But there were 68 different breeds—English, Scotch, Irish, Poles, Italians, Spanish, Germans, Russians, Croatsians, Norwegians, Danes, etc.

And it is my opinion that no one nation can lay any claim to any superior hold on courage or intelligence or competitive spirit. They are all mixed.

Friendly Counsel BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name and address will be confidential. Write to The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: My father is not financially able to send me and my brother to college and we have all decided that it will be better for the boy to have the college education. Besides, I keep house for my father as my mother is dead. I enjoy making a home for the two men and this keeps me from fretting over missing the experience of college. I have average looks and intelligence but I am cursed with an inferiority complex. I have no special talent. I want to acquire a polished and self-assured manner that comes with education. I want to be able to carry on good conversation and be at ease with cultured people. Any suggestion you can offer will be helpful and greatly appreciated.

ANSWER: If you want to pursue a pleasant pastime, look up your father and try to find a dull person who suffers from a sense of inferiority. You can then make a study of the intelligent people feel themselves inferior. With this as a starting point let us see what a girl with ambition for self-culture can do to reach for the realization of ambitions, without losing one's balance.

Probably the most important thing in life (after faith in God) is to fasten upon a good philosophy of life, one that takes into account nature, equipment of health, talent and wealth (always a relative term) and the environment in which one lives and moves. It is the acquiring and holding fast to this philosophy that makes one and enables one to reach for the realization of ambitions, without losing one's balance.

At sixteen you are fastening upon such a philosophy and the proof lies in the fact that you are accommodating yourself to a disadvantageous situation, by so doing, placing yourself in an unselfish service to your father and brother. More striking still is the fact that there is in the tone of the letter no note of martyrdom. Rather you are setting about to carry the burden of a household and to use your leisure in acquiring culture. The first requisite for poise and assurance is inner peace. You have it. The second is education. You can get it. The third is a philosophy of life, and your attitude toward people that make your contacts with them pleasant and agreeable. Peace of mind, good adjustment to the problems of life, and a philosophy of life will guarantee that kindly and sympathetic attitude.

"Fear will make a gazelle awkward," says Hervey Allen. We are all afraid of what we do not comprehend. We may be shunted off the highway of life by circumstances over which we have no control. Few people may pass our doorways and fewer enter them. But every emotion that the human heart has experienced, every thought the human mind has conceived, every invention the ingenuity of man has wrought is written in books. The sorrows of suffering souls, the laughter of light hearts, the intellects, the humor of the merry-minded have been described, analyzed and commented upon in books. Every human relationship, the best and the worst and low and lewd, has been pictured on pages. Virtues, hopes, fears, ambitions, frustrations are found in literature.

"History, fiction, biography, works on art and science are, in the last analysis, stories of people. If we read the lives of great men, we find through our doorways we may still joy in their lives, weep for their sorrows and disappointments, sympathize with their weakness, feel pride in their strength, delight in their triumphs. We may pluck the ripe fruit of their wisdom and feed on it, and share it with others. We may find in their lives a philosophy that we call education and it is this feeding and sharing that we call culture."

College makes the task of acquiring education convenient and comparatively easy. Teachers, with the aid of textbooks, libraries, and extra-curricular activities, point the way toward the goal of his ambition. All within the college walls are concerned with teaching or with being taught. The student's only job is to learn. However, the young person denied the privilege of a college education doesn't have to remain ignorant. With access to books, magazines and newspapers, a young person can educate herself in spare time provided she has the taste and the will to do it.

SECRETARY ICKES BARS "ROAD AGENT" FROM DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, Saturday issued an order barring a "road agent" from the department.

The order, memorandum dated December 8, said:

"This is to advise all members of the public works staff that Mr. James Bernard is persona non grata in the interior building. I want it reported to me instantly if he attempts to approach any member of the public works staff, either in the interior building or outside."

The order, which was signed by Bernard, was issued after Bernard was barred from the interior department where the public works administrator is located, because he was reported to be "drunken" by the Glenn Memorial auditorium on Florida public works projects unless the Florida governor use his influence to have a specific road project referred to Secretary Ickes.

The secretary, the Star said, confirmed the fact that the memorandum regarding Bernard followed a complaint by Governor Sholtz.

JITNEY PLAYERS OFFER PLAY BY SHAW TONIGHT

The Jitney Players will present Shaw's "Arms and the Man" in the Glenn Memorial auditorium on Florida public works projects unless the Florida governor use his influence to have a specific road project referred to Secretary Ickes.

The secretary, the Star said, confirmed the fact that the memorandum regarding Bernard followed a complaint by Governor Sholtz.

WANTS TO PLAY. SEATTLE, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Washington state game commission announced today by S. E. Dillon, chairman of the baseball committee of the chamber of commerce.

A chicken hawk with a four-foot wing spread and talons one and one-half inches long was killed near Midland, Kan.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

Edited By JACK TUBBS

Yancey Brothers, Inc., Will Hold Two-Day 'Caterpillar' School Here

FACTORY EXPERTS TO DEMONSTRATE ECONOMICAL USE

Simplicity, Dependability and Savings in Fuel Are Among Major Features of Diesel-Powered Unit.

Local power users, and others interested in machinery will have an opportunity Tuesday and Wednesday to obtain the latest information on Diesel tractor operation and application from representatives of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, who will conduct a series of meetings under the auspices of Yancey Brothers, Inc., local dealers for "Caterpillar" tractors, road machinery and power units. The school will be conducted at the Yancey Brothers plant at 634 Whitehall street, S. W.

Interest in the Diesel tractor has been running high in the Atlanta area since the first "Caterpillar" Diesel tractor was announced three years ago, according to Goodloe Yancey, president of Yancey Brothers, Inc.

Great fuel economy, simplicity and dependability are claimed for the machines, which, it is claimed, burn low cost fuel oil without the use of carburetor, ignition system or external heat, and burn from 40 to 60 per cent fewer gallons.

During the course of the "Caterpillar" school the operation of the engines, the reasons for their fuel economy and the application of the three sizes of "Caterpillar" Diesel tractors to all kinds of power jobs will be thoroughly explained.

Talking motion pictures and short illustrated lectures will be used to explain the latest developments in power farming and give owners and operators valuable information on the care of farm machinery.

One of the features of the program will be the new talking movies showing Diesel tractors at work. These machines have come into prominence during the past three years because of their ability to burn cheap fuel oil instead of gasoline, and tractor users of the Atlanta area will welcome the opportunity to see them in action and to have the engine explained by factory men.

During the school sessions, which will be held from 8:30 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p. m. each day, factory representatives will answer a number of questions which frequently are asked by owners and prospective buyers of "Caterpillar" Diesel engines.

They will explain, Mr. Yancey states, how various power jobs can be handled most efficiently and economically, what the difference is between a Diesel and a gasoline engine, how the Diesel operates, how the "Caterpillar" Diesel presents the solution of the problems of using low-priced fuel, and numerous other questions.

Every tractor user in the Atlanta territory is invited to attend the Yancey Brothers school, which is but one of scores which are held each year throughout the United States and Canada, and which are attended by hundreds of thousands.

The school is to be held in a desire to serve the tractor user, and its purpose is not to sell, but to serve. There is no obligation, Mr. Yancey points out, in attendance.

High Standard of Purity, Wholesomeness Maintained by Brownlee and Lively Dairy

Here is shown a part of the Brownlee and Lively dairy herd of fine Holstein and Jersey cattle, which supply much of the pure, sweet and wholesome blended milk delivered daily to Atlanta homes. As will be seen here, perfect cleanliness is an important factor at the Brownlee and Lively dairy. Milking barns are scoured and cleaned daily, and every other precaution is taken to insure the utmost in sanitary conditions.

The purity and wholesomeness of its products is a matter of special pride with the Brownlee and Lively Dairy, according to W. J. Brownlee, its founder, who attributes these qualities in a large measure to a perfect blending of milk from Holstein and Jersey cattle.

This mixture, declares Mr. Brownlee, produces the best and purest grade of milk that can be had.

Every precaution is taken at the Brownlee and Lively Dairy—located on a 50-acre tract on Briarcliff road—to insure the utmost in purity and cleanliness in its products.

At present, Mr. Brownlee states, the dairy is undertaking the construction of a modern sleeping "hotel" which will house the Brownlee and Lively herds at night and during inclement weather. With a floor area of approximately 10,000 square feet, it will include modern water troughs and hay racks sufficient for every cow.

"Dairymen," says Mr. Brownlee, "are coming to realize more and more that cattle, like human beings, must have the best of care if their productiveness is to be kept at its highest level. This is one of the chief factors in the success of a dairy." The dairy is located on a 50-acre tract on Briarcliff road, and is one of the largest in the Atlanta area.

Every tractor user in the Atlanta territory is invited to attend the Yancey Brothers school, which is but one of scores which are held each year throughout the United States and Canada, and which are attended by hundreds of thousands.

The school is to be held in a desire to serve the tractor user, and its purpose is not to sell, but to serve. There is no obligation, Mr. Yancey points out, in attendance.

BOND MART SEES IMPROVED TREND

Generally Better Sentiment Reflected as Dollar Settles Down.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(P)—Bond market sentiment generally displayed substantial improvement last week as the dollar settled down to a more moderate movement in foreign exchange dealings and business and industrial news was of a brighter hue.

While all corporation categories, led by the rails, pushed forward steadily, United States government securities acted somewhat contrarily notwithstanding firmer dollar rates and indications that inflationary psychology had cooled perceptibly. Most government issues, however, were only moderately lower.

The principal interest of the market, aside from the domestic gold price and dollar fluctuations, was in the announcement of the treasury's December 15, financing terms. The offering of $500,000,000 in 2-1/4 per cent one-year certificates was oversubscribed more than three times and the books were quickly closed. The interest rate was the highest since the treasury borrowings of last March, and most bankers were pleasantly surprised.

The fact that the government decided to follow orthodox procedure in its refunding operation, instead of issuing greenbacks or currency to pay off some $700,000,000 of maturing obligations, was encouraging to "sound money" elements although leading financiers actually had not the slightest expectation that any other course would be pursued. That a long-term bond issue was not attempted at this time, it was felt, was due largely to unsatisfactory market conditions. Even with the higher interest rate, however, the treasury will save some $7,000,000 on the deal.

Wall Street was still in the dark regarding the ultimate intentions of the administration as to its monetary program. The controversy over the gold-buying policy, though, seemed to have quieted down considerably and traders and investors showed an inclination to scrutinize earnings and yields more closely.

Highest grade corporation maturities were firm throughout and sharp advances were recorded by many secondary or semi-speculative issues. The financial district was cheered by dividend increases and resumption and a spurt in the sales of leading chain stores.

No excitement or gratification attended the publication of the official crop estimate, which happened to be rather close, in line with the trade expectations. Private estimates and trade ideas converged on a figure of around 13,000,000 bushels. Actually, the forecast pointed to a crop of 13,170,000 bushels compared with 13,002,000 last year and 17,069,000 two years ago.

It was understood in the trade that mills continued to buy the staple in small volume, and with many growers still holding their cotton, spot sales in southern markets again made up a small total. Such transactions were estimated at 125,000 bales against 212,000 in the corresponding week of last year and 162,000 two years ago.

With southern selling light, the volume of hedge selling in the future market was inconsiderable. Mills were said to have bought in a small way

Pre-Estimate Hesitation Slackens Trade in Cotton

Uncertainty Prevailing as to Next Moves in Washington Strongly Felt in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(P)—Dullness featured the cotton market during the past week. This slackness in business was attributed to the usual hesitation in advance of the government's final estimate for the season, due to the close of the week, and to the uncertainty prevailing as to the next moves at Washington to deal with the financial and industrial situation.

It is probable also that the light trading was influenced by the fact that all interest in the market has been thoroughly liquidated, so that the usual evening up in advance of the bureau estimate was extremely light.

As a result, fluctuations in prices from day to day were very limited, with an extreme spread between highs and lows of only 22 points. In early weeks prices eased off moderately on pre-bureau liquidation but this loss was later recovered on the belief that the government estimate would not differ greatly from that of a month ago.

The close of the week showed practically little net change, the final figures being only 8 points up.

The government estimate issued Friday called for a yield of 13,177,000 bales, or 175,000 bales more than the November estimate. The large estimated yield per acre of 20.4 pounds was considered somewhat bearish.

The government report exerted little effect on prices.

The spot demand was decidedly light during the past week. Owing to a practical deadlock between buyers and sellers, the daily transactions reported by southern markets were very light. Buyers are unwilling to pay the premiums asked, while holders of spots in the interior are not offering their crop for higher prices later.

Near the end of the week there was some improvement in the demand for export, particularly from the orient and from Germany.

Exports for the week were fair, although slightly under the corresponding week last year. The excess in shipments to foreign countries for the season to date is now 181,000 bales.

High, low and closing sales in the futures market during the past week compared with a year ago follow:

	High	Low	Close	Year
Dec. ....	9.90	9.75	9.93	5.73
Jan. ....	9.95	9.78	9.94	5.75
Mar. ....	10.15	9.93	10.10	5.85
May ....	10.29	10.06	10.25	5.90
July ....	10.40	10.21	10.37	6.06

INERTIA CHARACTERIZES NEW COTTON MART
By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(P)—The cotton market did little more than tread water last week. Trading inertia and narrowness of price swings, characteristics for the past month or more, were again very much in evidence. Contract prices at the end of the period were about 3 to 9 points above the final quotations of December 2.

No excitement or gratification attended the publication of the official crop estimate, which happened to be rather close, in line with the trade expectations. Private estimates and trade ideas converged on a figure of around 13,000,000 bushels. Actually, the forecast pointed to a crop of 13,170,000 bushels compared with 13,002,000 last year and 17,069,000 two years ago.

BUSINESS SHOWS DECIDED UPTURN AS HOLIDAYS NEAR

Retail Distribution Registers Sharp Quickening; Best Season in Two Years Predicted.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(P)—Vigorous preparations for the best Christmas in at least two years instilled good cheer in the business reports of the past week.

Retail distribution of merchandise has quickened as the Christmas shopping season in earnest after Thanksgiving began in earnest after Thanksgiving. Last minute rush orders have tended to sustain wholesale business at levels of recent weeks.

Dun & Bradstreet's preliminary estimates indicate that December retail business will exceed $4,000,000,000. Industrial output continues to hold up well for this season, when year end suspensions, for inventories and repairs are expected.

Still rather slow in getting into production of 1934 models, the motor industry is gradually quickening, and with dealers stocks of cars reduced to abnormally low levels, a vigorous expansion of manufacturing is planned for the next few weeks.

Building and construction continues to feel the stimulus of public works contracts, statistics for November showing a fair gain. The problem of spurring private enterprise in this line of activity, particularly in residential building, is receiving increasing attention in Washington. Statistics indicate that a substantial shortage of housing is developing.

Among miscellaneous manufacturing lines reporting operating schedules well maintained are makers of electric refrigerators, heating equipment, and glassware. In textiles, cotton mills, with permission of the NRA, have curtailed schedules 25 per cent for December, to permit the using up of stocks, and to sustain the price levels. This immediately stiffened the price structure.

Utilities and metals showed scant change. Oil prices were also generally steady but Gulf and Humble continued to move moderately in advance of the group, Humble touching a new high for the year in anticipation of three-for-one split-up.

Alcohols displayed a contrary disposition. Failing to respond to the general upturn occurring on the second session of the week, the repeal group staged their belated celebration of prohibition repeal with a moderate upturn on Wednesday. Hiram Walker was fairly strong, while lesser gain was shown by Distillers' Corporation, Seagram and Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A".

A number of fairly wide advances were scored among industrial specialties. Montgomery Ward "A" was bid up sharply to a new high for the year, while Aluminum Company of America moved substantially higher. Jones & Laughlin Steel, J. O. Smith, Axton Fisher, Driver Herring, Pan-American Airways, Lake Shore Mines and Pioneer Gold were in periodic demand.

Transfers averaged around 200,000 shares per each full five-hour session.

To The Holders of Bearer (Coupon) Debentures of Associated Gas and Electric Company:

You have doubtless read in the newspapers of the suit for a receiver recently filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court for the Southern District of New York. Inasmuch as there has been no default by the Company upon the principal or interest on any of its debentures the Company has every hope and expectation of having the suit dismissed.

On the other hand, we believe that debenture holders who are concerned with the consequences of a possibility of default and receivership, which would result most certainly in stopping all their present income from debenture interest, can act most effectively by exchanging their debentures under the Plan of Rearrangement of Debt Capitalization.

For this purpose Option 1 or Option 2 should be taken.

The purpose of this notice is to bring the situation to the attention of all debenture holders for their earnest consideration.

Associated Gas and Electric Company

Debentures may be sent to Transfer and Coupon Paying Agency, Sixty-one Broadway, or The Public National Bank and Trust Company of New York, 76 William Street, New York City, Depositories. A letter transmittal will be furnished on request although it is not necessary.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 85

Zora arose and blew out the candle, and a moment later the two captives saw Bukula crawling into the interior of the tent. "Listen, Memshib Drinov," he said, "the boys that Abu Bata stole from Bwana Zveri are running away tonight. We are going back to the safari."

"Why do you tell me this?" questioned Zora. "Because we will take you two with us, if you want to come," answered Bukula. "Yes," said Zora. "We will come." "Good," said Bukula. "Listen to what I tell you. The safari will not come back." "Then let us start!" cried Zora.

"No," said Bukula, "we cannot all go at once. First I will take this other Memshib with me out into the jungle where the boys are waiting. Then I will return for you. You can make talk to her. Tell her to follow me and to make no noise."

Zora turned to La. "Follow Bukula," she said. "I will come after you," she said, "I understand," replied La. Bukula stepped to the entrance of the tent and looked quickly about the camp. "Come!" he said, and followed by La, disappeared quickly from view.
